LUXURY LINER CRASHES IN SWAMP WITH 14 PASSENGERS, THREE CREW MEMBERS DEAD; CAUSE MYSTERY

Tragic Wreck Occurs in Arkansas Short Time After Airline Leaves Memphis; Jury terms Tragedy "Accidental"; Question Farmers

GOODWIN, Ark., Jan. 15—(UP).—Seventeen mangled bodies—the toll of the worst plane disaster in the history of American commercial aviation—were taken from the twisted and bloody wreckage of a crack airliner today and laid out along a swamp road.

Immediate investigations began to fix responsibility. The American air line's twin motored Douglas luxury ship crashed last night in a dense swamp three miles northeast of this farming hamlet, carrying all on board—14 passengers and a crew of three—to a frightful death.

Soon after Lake Littlejohn, department of commerce investigator, arrived from Little Rock, a formal coroner's inquest was held on the scene. The jury decided the crash was "purely accidental." All 17 bodies, some unrecognizable, were loaded on ambulances to be taken to Memphis.

To Question Natives

Investigators rounded up natives of the dismal swamp country adjacent to the Mississippi river, hoping to learn from them something that would lead to a partial explanation of the disaster.

John T. Shea, a Memphis attorney, said that one of the plane's two motors seemed to be operating amiss when the liner took off from Memphis. Otherwise there was no clue to the cause.

The plane was flying in perfect weather. Its gasoline supply was ample, its pilot, Jerry Marshall, had had years of experience and was considered by his employers as one of the best in the business. At least four emergency landing fields were available in the vicinity.

The plane left Memphis at 7:03 p. m. Fifteen minutes later her co-pilot, Glenn Freeland, reported by radio that all was well. Soon afterward, natives saw the machine flying low over the main line of the Rock Island railroad. A few minutes later there was a terrific crash in the swamp. Hours later, a rescue party, after wading through mud and swamp ooze that at times was waist deep, came upon a scene of indescribable horror.

Pilot Marshall apparently had warned his passengers. All had their safety belts adjusted. But so terrific was the crash, that in several cases the belts had cut bodies in half.

Scene Desolate
For several hundred yards the tops of the swamp oaks were sheared off. Bits of fuselage and the comfortable interior fittings of liners hung on twigs and branches. Parts of the plane were found over an area of four acres.

The condition of bodies inside the smashed cabin sickened some of the rescue party. Over all permeated a nauseating odor of high test gasoline.

Pilot Marshall, apparently in a mad fight to save his passengers and plane until the last instant, had cut off his fuel lines, thus preventing a fire. Gasoline had been splashed for many yards around.

American Airlines, owner of the fast ship, the last word in passenger planes, that was operating on the company's trans-continental lines, issued the following passenger list. While no body had been identified positively, these were thought dead:

W. R. Dyess, WPA Administrator for Arkansas, of Little Rock.
R. H. McNair, of Little Rock.
Mrs. J. S. Germillion, Knoxville, wife of the company's manager there.

F. C. Hart, New York City.
Charles Altschul, Glendale, Cal.
J. C. Cahn, Los Angeles.
Mrs. Samuel Horowitz, 36, Boston.

Mrs. Benjamin Horowitz, 55, her mother-in-law.
Seba Horowitz, 5, Samuel Horowitz' son.

W. S. Hardwicke, St. Louis.
Sam Schwartz, Atlantic City.
A. D. Chernus, Jefferson City, Mo.

James Wensfield and Pete Adams, Kentuckians, and Bronson Mounts, Waverly, were taken to the institution Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver. Wensfield and Adams admitted an auto theft charge and Mounts was sentenced for violation of a parole.

Breaks Air Mark

FLYING is just a sidelight of his, but Howard Hughes, above, youthful movie producer, showed up veteran pilots by breaking the transcontinental airplane speed record with the time of nine hours 27 minutes and 10 seconds in flight from Los Angeles to Newark, N. J. Hughes' mark shattered Col. Roscoe Turner's record of 10 hours 2 minutes and 27 seconds set last year.

MAY TAKES JOB WITH PURE OIL

Compliance Officer for AAA Leaves for Chicago

David May, S. Court-st, former AAA compliance agent in Pickaway-co, left Wednesday for Chicago to accept a position with the engineering department of the Pure Oil Co.

Mr. May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. May, proved efficient in his agricultural position, helping Pickaway-co gain a high rating in the state.

The Supreme court's ruling outlawing the AA program ended his work here.

ITALY STARTS DRIVE

ROME, Jan. 15—(UP).—Gen. Rodolfo Graziani has begun an offensive in the Dolo area in southern Ethiopia against warriors under Ras Desta Demu, son in law of Emperor Haile Selassie, it was announced officially today.

HEARING CONTINUED

The hearing for Bernard Fetherolf, 1, of Laureville, Rt. 3, arrested by police Saturday night for driving when intoxicated, was continued Tuesday afternoon by Mayor W. J. Graham until Feb. 14. The youth was released under $100 bond.

Young Mother on First Journey Denied Fright

MEMPHIS, Jan. 15—(UP).—Attorney John T. Shea, passenger on the ill-fated airliner, "The Southerner," from Nashville to Memphis, was stunned today when informed of the crash.

"To think that all those people I have just been with are dead," he said.

Shea and another passenger left the plane here. Four passengers boarded the ship.

"There was a mother on the ship not more than 30 years old and her little son on the plane," Shea said. "He was a lively youngster."

(Mrs. Samuel Horowitz, 35, of Boston, and her 5-year-old son, Seba.)

Shea said the hostess served dinner soon after the plane left Nashville all the passengers were at ease, a few engaged in conversation, and the trip to Memphis was most pleasant.

Mrs. Horowitz, Shea said, sat directly in front of him. She had not traveled in a plane before but insisted she was not afraid. But Shea noticed she hardly moved in the hour and twenty minutes between Nashville and Memphis.

which indicated to him that she was at least a little nervous.

Mrs. Shea overheard a conversation among the four men who boarded the plane here.

"Two men came to the airport together," she said. "I heard one say he wanted some insurance. He asked the porter how much it would cost for $25,000. The porter said $5. The man asked about $10,000 and the porter said it would cost $25. I did not hear whether or not he bought it."

Wilentz Declares He Believes Hoffman Will Reprieve Baby's Abductor

CONDON STILL ENIGMA

Federal Judge Refuses Writ for State of Execution for Carpenter

TRENTON, N. J. Jan. 15—(UP).—Bruno Richard Hauptmann will appeal again to the United States Supreme court to save him from electrocution Friday night, his attorneys announced today.

At the same time attorney General David T. Wilentz, Hauptmann's prosecutor, said he had learned on "reliable authority" that Gov. Harold G. Hoffman will grant Hauptmann a reprieve if the appeal fails.

Hauptmann's attorneys virtually admitted that they believed further court action futile, but planned to fight until the last. The Supreme court already has ruled, in effect, that Hauptmann's constitutional rights were not violated in his Fleming trial last January and a lower federal court refused last night to rule on the same question again.

Writ Plea Denied

The lower court decision was in the form of a denial, by Judge J. Warren Davis of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

SCHOOL DEBATE TEAM IS VICTOR IN INITIAL TRY

Circleville high school's negative debate team, in its first effort, defeated Amanda Tuesday evening. Both teams are members of the High School Debate league.

Members of the local team were Mary Elizabeth Groce, John Griffith, and Hilaire Haecker, alternates.

Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio university ladies' debating teams will appear in the local high school Thursday afternoon. The public is invited to hear the debate which will start at 2:30 o'clock.

JUST ANOTHER DUTY

The fire department was called Wednesday morning to get a cat out of a tree near the Courthouse.

YOUNG SUCCEEDS EBERT AS MEMORIAL HALL HEAD

Ralph Ward and William Betts, were re-elected president and secretary of the Memorial Hall Trustees association, respectively, at the organization meeting night. Robert J. Young was named superintendent of the hall succeeding Ed Ebert, who was recently re-elected to be the board and resigned. Earl Smith was appointed to succeed Mr. Ebert and elected treasurer.

The next meeting of the board will be held Tuesday, Feb. 11.

SERIES OF DAMS LISTED IN PLAN FOR WPA LABOR

Sportsmen, Conservation Department Support Stream Control Program

A WPA project for the construction of a number of small dams in Pickaway-co streams, sponsored by the state Department of Conservation and the Farmer's and Sportsman's association, will be presented to WPA officials in Chillicothe this week for approval.

The project will be submitted by Vattier Courtwright, local engineer, as the result of action taken by the sportsmen Tuesday night to pay material costs and obtain contracts with the land owners. Sportsmen have also agreed to keep the dams in repair after they are constructed.

Use Logs, Stones

The location of the dams has not been determined but preliminary selection of sites will be made by sportsmen and a representative of the conservation department, the project states. Logs and stones will be used for the work. They will not be large and material costs will consist largely of nails, wire and lag screws.

The purpose of the dams is to retard strong currents during high water periods and help maintain the streams in dry weather, provide watering places for stock, raise the water table in wells, provide better fishing and water for irrigation purposes and aid in combating drouth.

The dams will be constructed so, as not to involve danger to property either up or downstream. Numerous plans have been offered for their construction and they will be placed in sites where they will be a benefit to landowners.

TRUSTEES NAME W. E. CRIST HEAD OF SINKING FUND

W. E. Crist was elevated to the presidency of the trustees of the sinking fund and tax commission Wednesday morning at the board's organization meeting in the city building.

N. E. Reichelderfer, appointed by Mayor W. J. Graham as successor to George G. Adkins, president in 1935, was sworn in by the mayor.

B. F. Benford, who had two years yet to serve as a member of the board, handed in his resignation because of ill health. It was accepted and another member will be appointed by the board with the approval of Mayor Graham.

The other member of the board is O. S. Howard and Miss Lillian Young, city auditor, secretary.

TRAFFIC DETOURED FROM CITY'S UPTOWN DISTRICT

The detour on S. Court-st was changed Tuesday afternoon to permit WPA workmen to continue northward in tearing up the old street.

VETO OF BONUS SEEN IN WHITE HOUSE CIRCLES

F. D. R.'s Stand Against Payment Until Budget is Balanced Recalled

ATTITUDE IS UNCHANGED

No Statement Concerning Action Made Officially By President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—(UP).—President Roosevelt is expected to veto the bonus bill when it finally arrives at his desk, it was predicted today in sources close to the White House.

Friends of the chief executive pointed out that so far as they could determine, there was no change in Mr. Roosevelt's frequently expressed attitude against immediate payment of the Adjusted Service compensation certificates.

Stand Is Expressed

They recall that during the 1932 campaign he expressed a stand against payment and also again in the veto message that spelled doom to the bonus bill passed in the closing days of the first session of the present congress.

Meanwhile, the White House was sitting tight and saying nothing officially regarding the bonus measure.

Friends of Mr. Roosevelt presented their interpretation of his attitude when reports were circulated in congress that some persons were betting that Mr. Roosevelt would approve the bonus bill.

It was recalled that last year in his veto message, Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that the obligation to pay the bonus in full would not arise until 1945 and that, consequently, the government was not obligated to pay at this time.

Must Balance Budget

In his Pittsburgh speech he would be for the bonus only when there was a balanced budget and a cash surplus in the treasury that could meet such a demand.

'HOME' OFFICIAL FACES EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

UPPER SANDUSKY, Jan. 15—(UP).—Troy A. Dahn, 60, secretary-treasurer of the Reformed church home for the aged here, was to be arraigned today before Justice of the Peace F. E. Weidau on a warrant charging him with embezzlement of $11,000 of the home's money.

Dahn, member of the Toledo commission of publicity and efficiency, was arrested at his home in Toledo by Wyandot-co officers.

The warrant was filed by Rev. G. W. Good, pastor of the Reformed church here. The shortages allegedly extended over three years.

YOUTHFUL FUGITIVE ARRESTED BY POLICE

Harold Willison, 14, Hillsboro, who escaped from the Lancaster Boys Industrial school last Sunday, was identified by local police Tuesday night when he asked lodging in the "hobo" room. He was returned to the institution Wednesday.

Police Chief William McCrady noticed the boy was wearing overalls and questioned him about his home. He was confused on his locations and closer examination by the chief revealed he was wearing his school suit under the overalls.

BOLANDER TO ADDRESS TEACHERS AND PUPILS

Karl S. Bolander of Columbus, art director and lecturer for the National Guildcrafters, a unit of which is being established here, will lecture to high school teachers Thursday at 3:15 p. m. and Friday at 8:30 a. m. to pupils of the high school.

Both lectures will be in the high school auditorium.

He Demands AAA

PRESIDENT Roosevelt will be in a pretty pickle if injunction of P. T. Vincent, above, Philadelphia realtor, to prevent stoppage of the AAA is granted. Vincent filed a suit to enjoin President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, and AAA Administrator Chester Davis from interfering with the operation of the AAA, declared unconstitutional by the U. S. supreme court.

GERHARDT ASKS COUNTY OFFICE

Local Man in Prosecutor Race; Miss Burns to Run

Two more candidates, one an incumbent, were circulating their petitions Wednesday.

Attorney George E. Gerhardt, associated with his father, Charles Gerhardt, in the law firm of Gerhardt & Gerhardt, announced his candidacy for the office of county prosecutor. Mr. Gerhardt is a Democrat.

Miss Hilda Burns, county recorder, is circulating her petition for a second term. Miss Burns is a Republican.

COUNTY BUDGET GROUP TO MEET

Two Days Devoted to Discussion of Tax Rates

The county budget commission will meet Thursday and Friday to discuss tax rates, County Auditor Forrest Short announced Wednesday.

An hourly schedule for officials each district and township to meet with the commission has been issued by the auditor's office.

ILL-FATED PLANE PILOTED BY REAL VETERAN OF AIR

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 15—(UP).—Jerry Marshall, pilot of the American airlines ship that crashed with the loss of 17 lives, was a veteran of eight years' flying transport planes and his experience dated back to barnstorming days when he headed an itinerant flying circus.

Marshall learned to fly at the Army air schools at Brooks and Kelly fields in Texas. Later he taught aviation at the University of Texas. He attended the Universities of Texas and New Mexico and took two years at Purdue. His widow lives here.

Glenn Freeland, the co-pilot, also is survived by his widow who lives here. They were married six months ago.

Miss Perala Gasparini, 23, had been employed as a hostess on the Memphis-Fort Worth flight since October. She was a trained nurse and her home was in Memphis.

Mayor W. J. Graham's appointments were expected to be submitted to city council tonight at its regular session for confirmation.

CHANGES MINOR AS FIVE BANKS NAME OFFICERS

Noecker, Bach and Pontius Are Promoted as Directors Organize

ALL PRESIDENTS SAME

First National Elects Ralph Curtain Director to Fill Lone Vacancy

Stockholders of Circleville's three national banks and of those at Williamsport and New Holland heard glowing reports of 1935 business, and of the outlook for 1936, then elected their directors when annual meetings were held Tuesday afternoon.

Faith in their directorates was proved when only one bank reported a change. That was the First National bank where Ralph Curtain was added to the board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Col. C. E. Groce.

All directors re-elected their presidents: First, B. F. Benford; Second, O. S. Howard; Third, C. G. Shulze; Williamsport, G. P. Hunsicker, and New Holland, George Kirk.

Only minor changes were reported in the various organizations.

Noecker, Bach Chosen
The Second National bank promoted Joseph P. Noecker to a vice presidency and chose B. DeWitt Bach as assistant cashier.

Other Second National bank officers are: directors, O. S. Howard, John C. Stevenson, E. S. Neuding, Joseph P. Noecker, and D. S. Dunlap. Mr. Howard is president; Durdward D. Dowden, vice-president and cashier; Homer Walters, William R. McLaughlin, and Marvin E. Ebert were re-employed as bookkeepers.

The Third National bank directors promoted Leland E. Pontius from teller to assistant cashier as the only change in its organization. All directors, R. S. Bales, F. R. Caldwell, H. B. Colwell, Frank Lynch, Charles H. May, C. G. Shulze, and Clark Will, were re-elected. The officers are: Mr. Shulze, president; Mr. Will, vice president; M. E. Noggle, vice president and cashier; Mr. Pontius, assistant cashier, and Claude Kraft and Robert Rader, bookkeepers.

Directors of the First National bank are: B. F. Benford, W. E. Crist, C. A. Leist, George P. Foresman, John D. Hummel, Ralph Curtain, and William T. Ulm. Officers are: Mr. Benford, president; Mr. Ulm, first vice president and cashier; Mr. Leist, second vice president; Harold Hott, assistant cashier; C. C. Schwarz, teller and bookkeeper; Mildred Karshner, bookkeeper, and Bernice Cook, clerk and stenographer.

SENATE SURVEY SHOWS BONUS TO RECEIVE MARGIN

Several Who Supported President Now Ready to Vote to Override Veto

(Copyright 1936 By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—(UP)—Enactment into law of the Senate soldiers' bonus bill was definitely assured today on the basis of a survey which showed sufficient voting strength to override a presidential veto.

President Roosevelt may not veto the bill in the face of the overwhelming Senate support for it. But if he does there will be ample votes to override. The Senate "compromise" bill will be brought up for a vote tomorrow.

The end of the 16-year fight over bonus payment to America's World War soldiers may come with far less drama than has attended many of the hot congressional fights over the issue.

Only Nine Short
On May 23 last, after the House had over-ridden the president's veto of the Patman bonus bill, the Senate sustained, 54 to 40, nine short of the necessary 63 to enact the bill into law.

Bonus advocates have picked up at least 10 and probably more votes by developing a bond or demand note—method of paying the bonus and substituting it for the inflationary type of measure on which the test came last year. Senators who last year went "down the line" for the administration since then have seen their leaders go over to the bonus forces and several have come to the conclusion that they might as well join the procession.

A United Press poll of the Senate showed at least six votes for over-riding a veto, with several more doubtful ones expected to be in that column.

PATTERN 9749

For little folks who just can't wait to get out to play, or for the very young student who must be at school on time, a coat-frock is the most sensible "uniform" ever. So easy to do, any youngster can fasten it by herself, or take it off without a struggle at bedtime. Mother will find this particular style very easy to make, too, and just as easy to iron. The fact that a pattern for dainty little panties is also included with the frock, makes pattern 9749 a double money-saver, too. Doesn't the saucy little collar give the frock a crisp finish? Roomy pleats help a girl to get about in a hurry. As a cold-weather frock, challis would be ideal. Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9749 may be ordered only in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 requires 2 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric and 1/2 yard contrasting.

Be sure to send for OUR NEW PATTERN BOOK and see how easily your Spring wardrobe can reflect the latest fashions! Dozens of smart models for every occasion—some sketched, some photographed. Lovely new fabrics and how to make best use of them. New costume accessories. Smart slendering styles. Clothes to meet the needs of the whole family. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTY CENTS. PATTERN BOOK AND A PATTERN TOGETHER TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Send your order to The Herald, Pattern Department, 210 N. Court-st., Circleville, Ohio.

What's In a Name?—$2,000

WHAT'S in a name? Well, there may be $1,000 each in the names of these twins, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. O. Earl Lowe of Irwin, Pa., near Pittsburgh. Should the parents name them Ross and Marie and should it be decided the babies, now called "A" and "B", were the first twins of the new year, they will be enriched by $2,000, advertised gift of a motion picture concern. Nurse McCune of Allegheny hospital is holding the twins.

T. Robinson was in a difficult position. He has publicly endorsed the bill but would be in a dilemma if the president vetoes it. Both Robinson and Chairman Pat Harrison of the Senate finance committee are up for re-election this year.

Harrison will ask for unanimous consent tomorrow for immediate consideration. If this is denied it will be made an early order of business and the whole congressional action on the measure should be completed promptly.

The Senate finance committee voted, 15 to 2, to report the bond payment bill favorably after first voting, 18 to 0, to substitute it for the bill passed last week in the House.

CHURCH NOTICES

Dr. T. C. Harper, pastor of the United Brethren church, reports that there is every indication that the revival which has been in progress in his church since Jan. 5 is attracting wide interest. The audiences are increasing rapidly. Last night was Sunday School Night and the auditorium was filled. There was a fine representation from the Sunday School present and delegations from Lancaster, Ringgold, and other communities were present. The ministers of the city have been attending these services each evening and a splendid representation from the churches of the city attends each service.

Evangelist Dewey Whitwell spoke last evening on "The Hog Pen Experience." This was a searching message and eight souls were saved at the close of the service. Tonight will be Men's Night. The topic will be, "The Dead Line." The Women will sing for the men and women ushers will be used.

The Rev. Ivan L. Wilkins of The Presbyterian Church of London will be the preacher at the preparatory services at the Presbyterian Church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Since coming to London Mr. Wilkins has accomplished an excellent work. He succeeded the Rev. Curtis Shields, who became chaplain of the London Prison farm.

"Human Side of News" to Come Three Days; White, Alvino Rey, Eddie House on Afternoon Program

Edwin C. Hill, news commentator, internationally known journalist and author, will be heard in a new series of "The Human Side of the News," each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:30 p. m., E. S. T., over an NBC-WEAF network, beginning Jan. 27.

Known as one of America's ace reporters, Hill started in the newspaper business in 1900 with the Indianapolis Sentinel, after graduating from Indiana University. He realized his ambition to be a New York reporter when he joined the New York Sun in 1903 and worked continuously on that paper for 23 years. He wrote the scenario for the screen production "The Iron Horse" which he later wrote into a novel. His later books include "The American Scene" and "The Human Side of the News."

Billy White, tenor; Alvino Rey, electric guitar soloist, and Eddie House, organist, now are being heard regularly on the Musical Revue over an NBC-WEAF network each Wednesday and Friday at 2:45 p. m., E. S. T., in the east and at 4:45 p. m., E. S. T., in the middle west and west.

The program, formerly titled Betty Marlowe and her Californians, also has shifted time for its early, broadcasts, formerly heard in the east at 3:00 p. m., E. S. T.

White, Rey and House, the new members of the musical cast, are heard in addition to Bob Trendler, pianist, who has been featured on the program since its network debut.

White, now well-known to radio listeners for his high tenor voice, was until six years ago a rate clerk employed by a Chicago corporation. His voice teacher suggested that he study the banjo in order to improve his chances of finding employment with an orchestra. The banjo teacher recommended him to Johnny Maitland, orchestra leader, who immediately hired him. White later sang with the orchestras of Ted Fio Rito and Gus Arnheim before coming to radio as a soloist.

Rey, despite his Spanish monicker, is a Scotchman. He has acquired a national reputation for his work with dance orchestras. House likewise has been heard many times on the air.

Ohio Youths, Chosen by Legion, to Manage State

Purpose of June 21-30 Program is to Teach Boys Citizenship; School Authorities to Help

COLUMBUS, Jan. 17—(UP)—Youth of Ohio will be given a chance to show their elders how to govern, when—"Boy State," a tented city of newly graduated high school boys, operating their own state, county, city and township governments—will be held on the State Fair Grounds here, June 21 to 30.

The role purpose of the experiment, conducted under the auspices of the Ohio department of the American Legion, is to give the youth of today a better outlook on the burdens of citizenship which they will be expected to carry when they reach maturity. Selection of the boys, 500 of them are expected to participate, will be made by the individual American Legion Posts in the state. School authorities have been asked to aid in the selection of the deserving boys.

No Military Training
There will be no military formations and no attempt to teach military tactics.

The Camp is to be divided into two theoretical political parties. Competent persons in state, county and township life will act as instructors. The election machinery is being set up by James Hurd of the Secretary of States office. State Supreme Judge Arthur H. Day of Cleveland is writing the judiciary phase of the program. State Senator Paul Gingham of Columbus, is preparing the program for the legislative branch. Paul Rightlinger of Warren, the city phase and County Prosecutor Don Hoskins of Columbus the county and township program.

As a finale, it is planned to have the boys "get in" with state, county, city and township officials of Franklin-co to "run" the state machinery for a day.

And here is a picture of the modern auction warehouse of today where the same type of leaf tobacco is sold on the open market to the highest bidder.

There is no substitute for mild, ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette—and there never will be ... and that is the kind we buy for Chesterfield Cigarettes.

In the tobacco buying season Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. buyers will be found at 75 markets where the Bright type of tobacco is sold, and 46 markets where Burley and other types of tobacco are sold.

All these tobacco men are trained in the tobacco business, and are schooled in the Liggett & Myers tradition that only mild, ripe tobacco is good enough for Chesterfield Cigarettes.

NEW DRIVE FOR TAX COLLECTION POWER IS BEGUN

Legislature May Vote; $157,818 on Pickaway-Co's Delinquent Lists

A drive was begun today to push through the Legislature the bill to give the tax commission and the attorney general power to collect delinquent taxes in any county.

Defeated on partisan grounds last week, the measure is represented as a means of solving the financial problems of local governments.

Carlton S. Dargusch, vice-chairman of the tax commission, estimated that at least 50 to 55 per cent of the $200,000,000 in outstanding taxes could be collected over a three to four year period, and his views were concurred in by Rep. P. E. Ward (R) Geauga chairman of the House taxation committee and author of the bill. $157,818 in County—BF

If hopes were realized, it would mean that in Pickaway-co about half of the $157,818, outstanding in delinquent taxes at the beginning of the year, would be turned into the county's general fund by 1940.

While not mentioning any county in particular, tax officials assert that local political influences and friendship of the collecting agencies to tax payers are as much to blame for delinquencies as any other cause.

This bill, it is pointed out, would remove the local political influence and where county officials have become lax, would empower the attorney general to step in, with the aid of the tax commission, and start proceedings to force collections.

In Pickaway-co, there are outstanding on the basis of the 1935 collectable year, $7,596 in delinquent special assessments. The general tax delinquency in the county amounts to $150,222 making a grand total of $157,818.

The ratio of the amount paid in special assessments to the amount charged in Pickaway-co was placed at 40 per cent by the county auditor, as against the general state average of 18.34 per cent.

BYRD'S PICTURES TO BE SHOWN FARM DELEGATES

The picture "The Polar Voyage of the Byrd Guernseys" will be a feature of the program of the Ohio Guernsey Breeders' association meeting Jan. 21, in the Southern hotel, Columbus, according to an announcement received at the Farm Bureau Tuesday.

A number of Pickaway-co cattle raisers plan to attend the meeting. The speaker will be C. B. Finley of Minneapolis, field representative of the American Guernsey Cattle club. The meeting opens with a dinner at 11 a. m.

OHIO FUEL GAS OFFICE CHANGED

District Headquarters Now Athens; Phillips Manager

Central headquarters of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. in this district has been transferred from Chillicothe to Athens, officials have announced.

Harold M. Jay, manager of the Chillicothe district until a month ago, has taken over supervision of the Newark office. His place in Chillicothe has been taken by Howard Leckrone, formerly of Newark.

The new district supervisor is Frank W. Phillips of Athens.

Mr. Jay, while in charge of the office in this city, Chillicothe and others, did much valuable work for his company, two of his tasks being approval of new 5-year rate ordinances in both cities.

Although E. S. Roper retired Jan. 1 as cashier for the local office, his position has not yet been filled.

PACKERS TO ASK RETURN OF TAX

Court Order Sought in Chicago; Action Delayed

CHICAGO, Jan. 15—(UP)—Meat packers today took the first step in a move to recover approximately $55,000,000 in processing taxes paid under the outlawed AAA.

Counsel for Miller & Hart, Inc., packers, sought a court order modifying a temporary injunction issued several months ago and asked that $662,798 posted by the firm during processing tax litigation be released.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes postponed a hearing on the action until tomorrow at the request of the U. S. district attorney's office, which said the department of justice has not yet decided whether it will ask a rehearing on the AAA decision from the Supreme court. Other packers are expected to duplicate the Miller & Hart move within the next few days. The action is a sequel to the supreme court's decision Monday holding the AAA unconstitutional.

Each of the firms was forced to tie up funds in escrow pending outcome of suits to prevent collection of the processing tax. Processors over the nation posted approximately $200,000,000 in this manner, approximately a fourth of it being in Chicago, center of the packing industry.

With the prospect of recovering their $200,000,000, however, processors have the additional hope of forcing the government to repay approximately a billion dollars collected in taxes prior to last May and June.

In addition, packers have benefited from an upward reaction in their market stocks.

Wilson & Co. common rose $1.50 and the preferred was up $2.50. Swift common gained 50 cents, Cudahy 62½ cents and Armour 50 cents.

Housewives, on the other hand, paid from two and a half to four and a half cents less per pound for pork chops than they did before the AAA was outlawed.

AUDITORIUM IS SCENE OF NELSON EDDY CONCERT

COLUMBUS, Jan. 15—Nelson Eddy, popular young American baritone is certainly enjoying a meteoric rise to fame, judging from his Columbus appearance.

Two years ago Eddy appeared on the regular Capital University concert lecture series and there were plenty of vacant seats in Mees hall, the campus auditorium.

This year Eddy, who made his screen debut in the musical comedy hit, "Naughty Marietta," is again on the concert series and Harm

Harms, concert manager, has had to change auditoriums twice. Mees Hall was by far too small, as was also the Municipal Memorial Hall. So finally the Columbus Auditorium with a capacity of 5000 was procured for the concert which will be given Tuesday evening, January 28.

Nobel Prize in Medicine Amuses Medical Profession

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"THE NOBEL PRIZE in medicine this year," observed my old friend Dr. Adrian Gibbs, "seems to have the breasts of the profession."

Dr. Clendenning

The prize is given to Prof. Hans Spemann of Freiburg, on account of his work on the organ producing effect of certain tissue transplants. When the dissected portion of the upper lip of the primitive office of the larva of the water newt is transplanted to another part of the body of the animal, it has a peculiar effect on the cells in its neighborhood. They obtain, through the action of the implant, a new quality which allows them to develop into the organ which would have formed at the spot that the implant was obtained. It is not the cells of the implant itself which develop in this way, because the phenomenon occurs even if the implant is dead. The action must be chemical, but what the nature of the chemical has not been determined.

"My friends who are in practical medicine are inclined to giggle at this, and it does seem a long jump from the effect the upper lip of the primitive office of the water newt has on the cells in the neighborhood if it is transplanted, to the question of what to do for a baby with the croup."

Franklin answered, "What good is a baby?"

"I imagine Galvani would have received the Nobel prize if there had been one in 1791, for his discovery that a discharge of electricity applied to the nerve of a frog's leg would throw the muscles into contraction. Here is the passage translated in this little medical magazine:

Dissects Frog
"I had dissected a frog and . . . had placed it upon a table on which there was an electric machine, while I set about doing certain other things. The frog was entirely separated from the conductor of the machine, and indeed, was at no small distance away from it. While one of those who were assisting me touched, lightly and by chance, the point of his scalpel to the internal cranial nerves of the frog, suddenly all the muscles of its limbs were seen to be so contracted that they seemed to have fallen into tonic convulsions."

"It couldn't have seemed that there was any practical application to be made of the fact that a frog's nerve carried a charge of electricity, but as a result, the whole world is covered with wires, and messages are delivered and conversations held between parties a thousand miles distant."

"There are very few useless scientific facts. The nearest approach I know is the cremasteric reflex—it is absolutely useless, but perfectly beautiful."

ORGANIZING FOR SAFETY

It is gratifying to note that the federal government, aroused over the size of the nation's annual accident toll, has taken steps to coordinate safety activities with a view to development of a nationwide program in which civic organizations, industrial interests, educational units, highway agencies, newspapers, magazines state and municipal bodies will cooperate.

At a recent Washington conference, the following ideas were emphasized as indicating the need for vigorous action:

That more than 100,000 lives are lost every year in accidents on land and sea and in the air.

That more than 9,000,000 persons are injured annually.

That the nation each year suffers an economic loss running into the billions.

That the toll of deaths and injuries exceeds the total of American casualties in the World war.

NEW COLLEGE SPIRIT

The "College graduate" is not the man he was in days past when that title was something of the nature of a patent of social as well as intellectual nobility. Even that class, as a class, is seeing to it that its sons are not going the way their sires did. Consequently, as Frederick P. Keppel, president of the Carnegie Corporation, says in his annual report to the trustees, the "outlook is more hopeful," with educators keeping pace with the changes.

President Keppel notes that college presidents today are being chosen by trustees "more for what may be called their educational imagination than for any hoped - for capacity to raise large funds." That is good news. Colleges have to have endowments, it is true, but the head of a great educational institution needs other qualities than those of a hat-passer.

In the student himself Dr. Keppel sees a changed viewpoint. "The new generation is wider-ranging in its interests," he says, "has a refreshing sense of reality and a growing appreciation of the nature of its four-year investment." There is a "pro-

WORLD AT A GLANCE

The majority of public men shy away from discussion of the Townsend plan. Nearly every public man of consequence opposes it.

In the financial world Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, widely-publicized economist of the Cleveland Trust company, now steps forward with an analysis. It is an analysis that the business world hopes the people will understand.

Here it is:

"If the Townsend plan had been in effect in 1935, the average income of all Americans over 60 years of age would have been something over 2,400 dollars, but the average income of all younger than 60 would have been about 211 dollars. These figures are based on the assumption that the total national income would have been last year about what it actually was.

"The assumption is that the total national income is all that there is to be divided up among us, and this is clearly a fair and just basis for estimating how the plan would work out in the distribution of income in prosperous years, even if proponents of the plan may claim that its operation would do away with depressions.

"If we consider what the national income has actually been annually during the 56 years since 1880, and assume that under the Townsend plan all persons over 60 would have received 2,400 dollars a year, and that all remaining income would have been divided among all those under 60, we may compute what the average incomes of these younger people would have been. In 1880 their incomes would have been about

"NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT," SAID FDR AT VERY MOMENT

ROBERTS BLASTED AAA

WASHINGTON—At 11:30 a. m. of the historic AAA decision was handed down by the Supreme Court, President Roosevelt was holding a conference regarding the Farm Tenant Bill.

Simultaneously the Nine Old Men who knocked the foundation out from under his New Deal legislation were about to put on their black robes and go on the bench.

Sitting with Roosevelt in the White House were Secretary of Agriculture Wallace; Will Alexander, who is Tugwell's right hand man on tenant farming; Marvin Jones, chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture; and Lee Pressman, legal adviser to Tugwell.

Plans were being laid for pushing the Farm Tenant Bill through the House as soon as possible. Passed by the Senate last session, the bill provides for a billion dollar corporation by which the Government buys land for tenant farmers and helps them get started on it.

The President explained that for political reasons he wanted this bill passed as soon as possible. Turning to Representative Jones of the Agriculture Committee, he said:

"Marvin, what about getting hearings started by your committee within the next three weeks?"

"But, Mr. President," replied Jones, "don't you think we had better not hurry? Remember we may have to pass some legislation for the AAA after the Supreme Court hands down its decision."

"I doubt it," replied the President. "I don't think we'll have anything serious to worry about."

Twenty minutes later, Justice Roberts began reading the momentous AAA decision. And shortly after the Tenant conference adjourned, news of the decision was placed on the President's desk.

AAA PARENTS

Now that the AAA is dead, it is interesting to recall who wrote it.

It was a composite child, spawned by Henry Wallace, an ex-Republican; together with Professor M. L. Wilson of Montana State College, now Assistant Secretary of Agriculture; and Mordecai Ezekiel, a Harding appointee to the Department of Agriculture and a Hoover appointee as economist to the Federal Farm Board.

It was drafted chiefly by Fred Lee, a Democrat, who served as legislative draftsman of the Senate during two Republican Administrations.

found dislocation in accustomed thought and actions" as a symptom of the last few years. A leaven is working in the American college, Dr. Keppel observes, with satisfaction.

would be divided among all the rest of the people.

"They would receive little unless the plan could enormously increase the production of goods."

IN 1928

Someday has dug up the fact that the U. S. supreme court in upholding the constitutionality of the tariff in 1928 ruled:

So long as the motive of congressional and the effect of the legislative action are to secure revenue for the benefit or the general government, the existence of other motives in the selection of the subject of taxation cannot invalidate congressional action.

PRO-DEMOCRATIC?

Democrats may put to use an editorial in the sedate and conservative London Times, which poses the question:

"Can the United States afford to allow the national government to be stopped from exercising any direct control over matters of vital national concern? The Constitution was written in 1778. Since then modern methods of production, trade, transportation and communications have largely obliterated state boundaries in matters of business and economic development.

"Is it possible to continue to regard the questions raised by this change of conditions as the exclusive affair of the states?"

"It is hard to see how an extension of the federal authority can be prevented from becoming the dominant issue in the coming elections or how, in the long run, the American people can reduce their government, the powers necessary for the protection of the economic interest of the whole nation."

MURDER UPSTAIRS
By ADAM BLISS

CHAPTER 45

"WHY SHOULD the murderer search Della's room?" I asked Larrabee. "Wouldn't he leave as soon as his work was done? There was nothing to take. Grace said that the last time she saw the gloves they were in the pocket of one of the coats. That was about 1 or 2 o'clock, yesterday. It seems to me that when Della undressed they would remain there."

Larrabee smiled. "Unless, Mrs. Penny, Della removed the gloves and put them away, under her pillow, or something like that. On the bed, in her hands. If Hemingway was the light of Della's life, as Grace says, isn't it probable that because they were his gloves, she would keep them near her? I think it's reasonable to conclude that Della Randall took the gloves from the pocket of her dress when she undressed, carried the gloves to bed with her, perhaps forgot them when she heard a knock at the door, and then when she got up, the gloves fell to the floor and remained there until we found Della, later. The gloves were on the floor near the head of the bed, a queer place for them to be."

"It sounds logical."

"I like your mind, Mrs. Penny. It responds quickly. Thanks for the information about the gloves. Grace said nothing to me last night about them when I talked with her, and nothing about Martin Hemingway. Now, then, is that all you talked about in the trunk room?"

My man said, 'I was there for three-quarters of an hour.'"

"That's all, Lieutenant Larrabee," I lied, firmly.

"And what took you so long with Janet Bell? Was she telling you the story of the dagger?"

"Yes."

"Strange that that, too, should take three-quarters of an hour."

Burke interrupted us with a report on Mrs. Rippe.

"The writer of this letter is dead, sir. Died two years ago, in Europe. Husband is still abroad. Nothing developed from this lead."

Larrabee thanked him shortly and turned to me.

"Are you sure that was all Janet told you, Mrs. Penny?"

"Quite sure, and she didn't kill either Andrew Darian or Della."

I couldn't help flaring up on that. He was looking at me so queerly.

"You're very trusting, Mrs. Penny. That's the only thing that's wrong with your logic. You let your heart sway you. Very bad in this business."

"But I'm not in your business, Kirk Larrabee."

"True, you're not, but you've got a wonderful knack of making people like you. You've got a God-given faculty for getting information out of people because they like and trust you. You're wasting your time keeping a boarding house, Mrs. Penny. I didn't know whether to feel flattered or not. He might be making fun of me.

"I know these people, that's why they tell me things—" I said, slowly.

"No, it isn't that. I think you could get the confidence of a hard-boiled longshoreman if you really set out to do it. What else did Janet tell you, Mrs. Penny?"

Flattering me so I tell him! I wasn't going to, of course, but I was utterly unprepared when he tossed a telegram on my lap. I read it carefully, every word of it. It was addressed to him.

IS JANET BELL MENTIONED IN DARIEN MURDER HOUSE SAME JANET BELL WHOSE BROTHER JERALD BELL ESCAPED FROM COUNTY JAIL SEATTLE IN NOVEMBER STOP GIRL IS 21 YEARS OLD BLONDE DARK BROWN EYES SMALL ABOVE LEFT EYEBROW STOP WEIGHT 100 POUNDS HEIGHT FIVE FEET ONE INCH STOP ANSWER IMMEDIATELY STOP WATCH HER IF SAME GIRL FOR CLUE TO BROTHER'S WHEREABOUTS STOP WANT HIM BADLY STOP SENDING PHOTOGRAPH AIR MAIL FOUNDED CHIEF OF POLICE SEATTLE

"I got that last night, Mrs. Penny, and I've already answered it. Janet Bell is certainly the girl they want, and I told them that."

"I also informed them that the letters she has been getting at your house here all these months from New York. No name on the envelopes, however. But Miss Cambridge was able to give me the information I wanted. She's a mine of knowledge about everybody in the house, and she isn't bothered with your scruples, Mrs. Penny."

I handed back the telegram, and got up. Larrabee waved me back to my chair. I had to sit down again, worried all through, wondering what was coming next. Poor Janet. The blow had fallen.

Larrabee tapped the yellow telegram with his pen.

"I'm not hunting bank robbers, Mrs. Penny. I'm hunting the murderer of two people at the present time, and I'm going to find him. If I thought Janet Bell knew anything about the murders of Darian and Della, I'd arrest her this minute. I can see how she might have murdered Darian, but I can't figure out a reason or opportunity for her to kill Della."

"You won't tell me what she told you about herself, but perhaps I can make a pretty good guess from what Hemingway overheard and what she was forced to admit to me."

"Of course the letter she found pushed under her door mentioned her brother. She went to Darian about it. He was a blackmailer. We've established that definitely. How he found out who Janet Bell was I can't imagine, but I'm sure he must have discovered it some way. Perhaps he thought she had some of the stolen money, or could get it, and demanded a share of it to keep silent. Perhaps he wanted something else. That's very possible.

"The whole crux of my case against Janet lies on the time she found the note under her door. If she found it right after dinner, she would have had the opportunity to take the carving knife from the dining room buffet, wait until Darian went to his room, go in and kill him. The note was put under her door immediately after dinner. Darian went upstairs alone, but came right down again. Hemingway was with him when he went up again at 11, and Darian went right into his own room."

"Therefore, he didn't put the note under the door then. He must have done it when he went up the first time. Hemingway thinks that Darian never left his room from 11 to 11:30. And so Janet goes upstairs after dinner, after Darian's trip, and she finds the note, reads it, burns it, comes downstairs, goes into the dining room, steals the knife, makes another trip upstairs—for she did go upstairs twice before she finally retired—hides the knife. Later she goes to Darian's room, carrying the knife. It all fits."

"It can't fit," I protested. "Why should she steal a knife when she already had one—her dagger?"

"Beautiful, Mrs. Penny. I didn't know whether you'd see the flaw in my case or not. Janet had a knife, this one." He picked up the dagger. "It's rather small, and perhaps Janet didn't think it would do the work. After all it isn't a large knife, and it is dull. It might not kill at one blow. She was sure of the carving knife. It would do an assassin's job. See?"

"Why would she kill Della, too?"

"That's what I don't know, Mrs. Penny. That's where the very high brick wall is standing in my mind. I can't climb over it. Janet doesn't seem to fit as a girl with homicidal tendencies. She seems normal—I can understand her distress now that I know about her brother and his escape from jail before his trial. She naturally would be greatly alarmed."

I can explain that, and I can build up a pretty fair reason why she would want Andrew Darian out of the way, but I can't explain the ruthless killing of Della by ascribing it to Janet. She only knew her as a maid in the house.

"There are two things that might account for it—one, that Janet is a killer, which her entire attitude and makeup belie, and the other is that Della might have learned from Darian about Janet's brother. Far fetched, of course, because I think if Della had known, she would have told me. She was inclined to hysteria, but she was honest as the day is long, even if she did take Hemingway's gloves secretly from his pocket."

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

In adapting "Seven Keys To Baldpate" to the screen with Gene Raymond under his new long-term contract headlined, RKO Radio has chosen a play that is of considerable importance in the history of the American theatre.

In 1913 George M. Cohan dared to shatter a well-established theatrical tenet, sniggered at all previous mystery thrillers, and wrote "Seven Keys To Baldpate" as a spine-tingler to end all mysteries.

Before Cohan's historic experiment, chillers were inclined to be ponderously horrible, even gory. More, they had been governed by the rule that the audience was always to know what the characters didn't was never to be ignorant of what was going to happen, or who was going to murder whom. Suspense was to be kept, according to the tenet, only through interest in how things would work out.

A SURE CASE

Lawyer: I feel sure I can get you a divorce, madam, on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment. But do you think your husband will fight the suit? Woman: Fight? Why, the miserable little shrimp doesn't even dare to come into a room where I am.

A CONTRAST

The sad looking man in the tenement area leaned over the banisters and caught the visitor before she could disappear down a hole in the staircase.

"I wonder," said the visitor indignantly, "the landlord doesn't do something to repair this wretched building?"

"Well," said the slum dweller, "he was going to do something about it, until he went on a tour to Naples and saw the ruins of Pompeii. Now he thinks this isn't too bad."

Poems That Live FOREVER

Those we love truly never die, Though year by year the sad memorial wreath, A ring and flowers, types of life and death, Are laid upon their graves.

For death the pure life saves, And life all pure is love; and love can reach From heaven to earth, and nobler lessons teach Then those by mortals read.

Well blest is he who has a dear one dead: A friend he has whose face will never change— A dear communion that will not grow strange; The anchor of a love is death.

The blessed sweetness of a loving breath Will reach our cheek all fresh through weary years, For her who died long since, ah! waste not ears, She's thine unto the end.

Thank God for one dear friend, With face still radiant with the light of truth, Whose love comes laden with the scent of youth, Through twenty years of death.

O. E. S. Initiates Two Candidates Tuesday

Out-of-town Guests, Grand Officers in Group of 70

An interesting meeting was conducted by the local chapter Order of the Eastern Star Tuesday evening when it initiated two candidates. Seventy members were in the group attending and several grand officers and out-of-town guests were present.

Following the opening of the chapter, Miss Virginia Marion, conductress, presented the grand officers, including C. C. Chapelear, past grand patron; Miss Marie Hamilton, associate grand patron; P. R. Devore of Columbus, associate grand patron, and Mrs. Hazel Wood, deputy grand matron of the twenty-third district. These grand officers gave short talks just prior to the closing of the chapter.

Other officers presented by Miss Marion were several 1936 worthy matrons and patrons of Columbus chapters; past matrons of Circleville chapter, and past matrons and patrons of other neighboring chapters present.

After the business session, the initiatory work was put on by local officers and during the work music was furnished by Mrs. Alonzo Marion and Elza Radcliff. Miss Eloise Hilyard and Mrs. Edith Vlercome were the candidates.

A beautiful and impressive memorial service in charge of some of the officers followed the initiation. The service was in memory of three members, Mrs. Anna Hall, Mrs. Agnes Strahm and Noah G. Spangler, who died during the past year.

A social hour followed the closing of the chapter and refreshments were served under the chairmanship of Mrs. Sam Morris who was assisted by Mrs. W. S. Gearhart and Mrs. George Valentine.

N. Porter, Philadelphia. H. W. Plato, Laredo, Tex. Pilot Jerry Marshall, 40. Co-Pilot Glenn Freeland, 32. Hostess Perla Gasparini, 24. C. R. Smith, president of American Airlines, ordered an immediate investigation from Fort Worth, where news of the tragedy reached him. Department of commerce officials in Washington ordered an investigation. But circumstances of the disaster indicated that a full explanation might never be known.

Pilot An Expert

The plane was flying through a calm, clear night. There were a few clouds above 5,000 feet but visibility apparently was excellent. She was 15 minutes out of Memphis when she reported by radio that all was well. That was the last heard from Pilot Marshall, a veteran transport flier regarded by his employers as one of the most expert in the business.

The plane left Memphis at 7 p. m. The pilot had inspected his plane and judged her in first class condition. Her next scheduled stop was Little Rock, Arkansas. She was flying over the flat Arkansas swamp and rich farm land adjacent to the Mississippi. At least four emergency landing fields were available in the immediate vicinity. Fifteen minutes after leaving Memphis, Co-Pilot Freeland radioed:

"Twenty-five miles west of Memphis. Flying 3,000 feet. Scattered clouds at 4,500. Temperature 55."

"Okay," said the Memphis operator.

Minutes passed and stretched into a half hour. Memphis expected another report from the Southern. None came. Memphis sent an inquiring call. No answer. Memphis was not alarmed until an hour later, when Little Rock reported the Southern overdue. The air became charged instantly with messages directed at the Southern. No answer.

Heard by Farmer

As well as comparative times

evening where they were among guests at a dinner party.

Mrs. Robert Gearhart, N. Court-st, returned Tuesday from a few days' visit with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Stoker, in Columbus. Her daughter motored her home.

Mrs. Joseph Sittler returned Wednesday to her home in Columbus after a few days' visit with her sister, Mrs. I. N. Abernethy, Northridge-rd.

could be established, George Jones, a farmer living two miles north of Goodwin and a mile from the swamp where the wreckage was found, heard an airplane over his home 45 minutes after the Southern told Memphis that all was well. Suddenly, as Jones listened—he thought the plane was flying unusually low—a motor sputtered and quit. An instant later he heard a heavy crash.

Goodwin is 45 miles east-southeast from Memphis. Jones' news, telephoned to the Memphis airport, mustered several score men from Forrest City, nearby, Goodwin, and the countryside. Soon more scores arrived from Memphis and soon the searching parties had scattered and were slush-slushing through the dank and oozy swamp lands.

Soon after 1 a. m., the searchlights of the searchers picked out the wreckage of the Southern. The cabin had been smashed and partly buried in rancid swamp water and mud. Light through the broken portholes revealed blood—gruesomeness indescribable. Bodies were found scattered about. Wreckage of the plane circled the cabin for two hundred yards around.

One motor had been smashed back into the plane. Another was a hundred yards away, buried in ooze.

The rescuers, plodded back through the swamp, water and mud often knee deep, to the road where farmers were waiting with wagons and mules which were led back to the scene. These were used to carry the bodies to the road, where they were placed in ambulances and sent to Forrest City.

Rumors Discounted

Airline authorities and air transport experts were at a loss to explain the crash. If one motor had failed, they said, Pilot Marshall surely could have kept his ship in the air. If both had failed, emergency fields were available. Excited rumors of sabotage were heard at Memphis airport, but these were discounted.

The curious and relatives of the victims began gathering at the company's airports along the line soon after the news of the crash spread. The plane left Newark at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday. It made stops at Philadelphia, Washington, Nashville, and Memphis.

The accident was the worst in the history of American commercial aviation. The highest toll previously was 16 killed when a transport plane crashed and burned near Oceanside, Calif., Jan. 19, 1930.

Sportsmen to Introduce New Game Bird in County

Chukar Partridge, Native of India, May Provide Sport; H. E. Betz Re-Nominated for Club Presidency

By FRANKLIN KIBLER

Local nimrods, who are lovers of wing shooting, may be training their dogs and guns on a new game bird in Pickaway-co in the near future.

The new bird is the Chukar partridge, introduced to the Pickaway Farmers' and Sportsmen's association Tuesday night by Ed Rausenberger, and Roy Beatty.

Rausenberger plans to purchase 30 eggs this spring and Mr. Beatty, operator of the local hatchery, will hatch them. If their efforts are successful the birds will be liberated on local preserves.

Efforts to transplant the common partridge in this county have so far been unsuccessful and the sportsmen believe this new bird will take its place.

Pickaway Falls By One Point; Muhlenberg is Victor

Scioto-twp's cagers, on their home court, protected a tiny lead gained at half-time and defeated the Pickaway-twp quintet, 28-27 in one of the most thrilling frays of the year.

Scioto led one point at the half and with only a few seconds to go ahead by three counts. A Pickaway had pugged a goal, but there was not time enough for another shot, and the game ended. Both teams were even in goals but Scioto held a one point edge in free throws getting four to three through the net.

Anderson, a sophomore, and Rhoades, forwards, led the Pickaway scoring with 13 and 12 respectively, while Dennis, Williams, and Beavers divided the bulk of the Scioto points.

Pickaway girls added to their chance for a place in the tourney when they white-washed the Commercial Point girls, 22 to 0. Pickaway reserves won 24-20 when they held the Scioto boys to one point in the second half after the first two quarters ended 19-9 in favor of Scioto.

Muhlenberg-twp. and Walnut-twp split a double bill on the Darbyville court, the home boys winning and the girls losing. Scores were: boys, 24-17, and girls, 12-26.

Ankrom and Dean did most of Muhlenberg's scoring while Martin was high for the losers.

AVOIDING FINESSES

EVERY CAREFUL player avoids unnecessarily taking finesse. Sometimes things may be too critical to take a finesse, for fear of what may result if the finesse goes wrong. In a recent duplicate game at the New York Athletic club I was the only player to go game on two successive hands, merely because I refused to take finesse that meant defeat if they went wrong. The hands follow.

Bidding of above hand went: South, 1-Diamond; West, 1-Heart; North, 1-Spade; South, 2-Diamonds; North, 2-Spades; South, 2-No Trumps; North, 3-No Trumps, when he should have rebid spades.

The opening lead was the Q of hearts. I dared not decline to win the trick. I led off the Ace of diamonds. Normal play was to lead dummy's last diamond, and finesse, but I could not afford to take a spade finesse and lose, nor could I afford to at once play dummy's Ace of spades. Driven by necessity I led another top diamond. My troubles were over. The Q fell, leaving me six diamond tricks, one heart trick and our two side Aces, giving us just game.

Winning with my Ace of hearts

OHIO BAKERS CHOOSE W. E. WALLACE AS PRESIDENT

ANNUAL CONFAB COMES TO END; NOYES SELECTED

Local Man to Serve Association Through Year; Columbus Wins Convention

W. E. Wallace, 425 N. Court-st., proprietor of the Wallace bakery, W. Main-st., today had been honored with election as president of the Ohio Bakers' association. The annual convention closed Tuesday afternoon in Toledo.

Mr. Wallace has long been active in baking association circles, and has served on its board of directors. He succeeds Edward M. Balduf of Toledo.

Other officers include: vice president, Thomas A. Catlan of Toledo; treasurer, Karl F. Faehle of Columbus, and secretary, Frank E. Noyes of Columbus.

Columbus was chosen by the bakers for the 1937 convention. Mr. Wallace will serve through 1938.

MOTHER, 50, KILLS THREE CHILDREN, TRIES SUICIDE

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Jan. 15.—(UP)—Mrs. Sarah Oberly, 50, wife of the Chester-co. agricultural agent, beat her three children to death today as they lay in their beds and then attempted to hang herself.

The dead were: Mary, 17, high school senior; Joseph, Jr., 10; and Louise, 8.

Mrs. Oberly, with a strand of telephone cord around her neck, was found beside the children's bed. She was taken to the West Chester-co. hospital. Physicians said she would recover.

The children's father, Joseph Oberly, was reported attending an agricultural conference.

Near the children's bed lay a steel bar. It was blood-stained and evidently used by the woman in beating the children.

The world mausoleum is derived from the tomb erected at Halicarnassus to Mausolus, king of Caria, by his widow, Artemesia. It was built about 350 B. C.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

The integrity of the upright shall guide them; but the perverseness of transgressors shall destroy them.—Proverbs 11:3.

A letter received by The Herald office Wednesday from James D. Dresbach, Detroit attorney, former Judge Charles Dresbach, is still in the land of the living. The younger Mr. Dresbach wrote that his father, who went to visit him Dec. 12, has improved steadily since arriving in Detroit.

One hundred and fifty members of the lodge were served supper Tuesday evening when the Fraternal Order of Eagles enjoyed a big evening. Visiting members of the lodge were Dave Berry of Cleveland, grand auditor, and C. O. Conrad of Hillsboro, state organizer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Green and family moved Wednesday from 720 S. Court-st to 127 1/2 W. Main-st.

Berger hospital employees have been kept busy the past week. Sixteen patients have been in the hospital each day for over a week and Tuesday there were eighteen, two being discharged during the day. Twenty-five are the most that can be cared for at one time.

Clarence Heeter was removed from his home on the Stoutsville road Tuesday afternoon to University hospital, Columbus. He is suffering from pneumonia. The trip was made in the Rhinehart invalid car.

Mrs. Alice Hosler, N. Scioto-st., is slowly improving today following a heart attack Monday morning.

Joseph Rooney Jr., E. Union-st., underwent a goiter operation Wednesday morning in Berger hospital. Dr. William Smith of Columbus performed the operation.

CRIMINAL FLEES FEDERAL 'TRAP'

Karpis, Companion Escape from Missouri Garage

AURORA, Mo., Jan. 15.—(UP)—Alvin Karpis, America's Public Enemy No. 1, and a companion escaped a trap set by federal officers and highway patrolmen at a garage here today.

The trap had been maintained by federal agents and highway patrolmen since Dec. 30 when Karpis and his companion rented space in a garage to store their automobile.

The identification of Karpis at that time was made positive by Harry and Oliver Seburn who operate the garage and several attendants who were there when the two men drove the machine in.

The trap failed when officers temporarily relaxed their vigilance at the breakfast hour. Federal agents and highway patrolmen took up the trail and were reported to be less than five minutes behind the desperado.

YOUNG DIVORCE GRANTED

Helen Young, Deercreek-twp., was granted a divorce in common pleas court Tuesday from J. R. Young on the grounds of neglect and cruelty. Mrs. Young was restored to her maiden name of Helen Brannon.

The custody of a minor child, J. R. Young, Jr., was awarded by the court to his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Young.

The divorce action of Wilma Wilson, Columbus, against Robert W. Wilson, has been assigned for hearing Jan. 18 at 1 p. m. by Judge J. W. Adkins.

and an application for a stay of execution. The court said the requested action would be a reversal of the Supreme court by a lower court. He said he believed Hauptmann had a fair trial.

Governor Hoffman thus became Hauptmann's one hope. His only other possible avenue of escape are an appeal to the New Jersey Supreme court in Flemington for a new trial and an appeal to a judge of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals for a "writ of probable cause."

Lawyers thought court appeals would be useless—that they could not win even a delay.

Governor Hoffman maintained a silence that has endured since he retracted an announced intention to order Dr. John F. (Jafise) Condon "apprehended" in Central America for questioning. But he revealed that he still is vigorously investigating "Jafise's" part in the mystery. He handed to reporters photostatic copies of two letters the Bronx school teacher wrote to unidentified persons. Both indicated Condon believed his correspondent knew something of the Lindbergh kidnaping. Hoffman did not reveal where he obtained the letters.

May Delay Case

The evidence of his continued interest in "Jafise," who sailed suddenly last Friday for Central and South America, and Wilentz's statement, caused new confidence in some quarters that he will order Hauptmann's execution delayed until Condon can be questioned again.

"The governor expects that Dr. Condon will return voluntarily," cryptically said William C. Conklin, Hoffman's secretary.

Forty cases of canned meat, the first shipment of surplus commodities sent to the newly organized central relief agency, arrived Wednesday morning. The first distribution will be made Friday.

Oddities in Nation's News

SLEEP-PROOF CLOCK

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(UP)—Because Columbia university students objected to weak coffee in the cafeteria, Edward O. Ross has invented a sleep-proof alarm clock. The coffee used to be weak because Ross is the cafeteria coffee maker and he never could get to work early enough to run it through more than once. So he put a spool on the alarm key of his clock, a string to wind on the revolving spool and an electric switch at the end of the string. The switch ignites a spotlight trained on his pillow, and turns on his radio full volume. And if that fails, a second alarm clock goes off five minutes later. The coffee has been perfect for days now.

17 KILLED AS SOUTHERN PLANE FALLS

LUXURY LINER CRASHES IN SWAMP WITH 14 PASSENGERS, THREE CREW MEMBERS DEAD; CAUSE MYSTERY

Tragic Wreck Occurs in Arkansas Short Time After Airline Leaves Memphis; Jury terms Tragedy "Accidental"; Question Farmers

GOODWIN, Ark., Jan. 15.—(UP).—Seventeen mangled bodies—the toll of the worst plane disaster in the history of American commercial aviation—were taken from the twisted and bloody wreckage of a crack airliner today and laid out along a swamp road.

Immediate investigations began to fix responsibility. The American air line's twin motored Douglas luxury ship crashed last night in a dense swamp three miles northeast of this farming hamlet, carrying all on board—14 passengers and a crew of three—to a frightful death.

Soon after Lake Littlejohn, department of commerce investigator, arrived from Little Rock, a formal coroner's inquest was held on the scene. The jury decided the crash was "purely accidental." All 17 bodies, some unrecognizable, were loaded on ambulances to be taken to Memphis.

To Question Natives

Investigators rounded up natives of the dismal swamp country adjacent to the Mississippi river, hoping to learn from them something that would lead to a partial explanation of the disaster.

John T. Shea, a Memphis attorney, said that one of the plane's two motors seemed to be operating amiss when the liner took off from Memphis. Otherwise there was no clue to the cause.

The plane was flying in perfect weather. Its gasoline supply was ample. Its pilot, Jerry Marshall, had had years of experience and was considered by his employers as one of the best in the business. At least four emergency landing fields were available in the vicinity.

LINER WRECK FIRST IN 186,000,000 MILES

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(UP).—American airlines officials today said the crash of their plane near Goodwin, Ark., in which 17 were killed, was the first accident in 186,000,000 passenger miles.

"We have carried 240,000 passengers during the past year and a half without accident," they said. "All our pilots must pass stringent department of commerce requirements. Each plane is given a thorough check before every flight."

The last crash of an American Airlines plane occurred June 9, 1934, near DeBouche, N. Y., when seven were killed.

DONAHEY FAVORS CHANGES IN LAW TO HELP NATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(UP).—Amendment of the United States constitution to provide "additional guarantees of health, safety, and security" for the people was urged today by Senator A. Vic Donahey of Ohio.

"In my opinion, our federal constitution has not kept pace with the times, and should be revised," Sen. Donahey said. "The procedure for revising of amending the same is in the hands of all the people, but by reason of business sectionalism, selfishness and other causes, the task has seemed insurmountable and the people lulled into indifference."

"In the present necessity, caused by violent economic disturbance, the first reaction is against the United States Supreme court, which dares to say that certain laws passed to restore better economic conditions are unconstitutional."

Sen. Donahey pointed out that the constitution itself vested this power in the court, making its decisions the "law of the land."

6 ENTER INSTITUTIONS

Harold Smith and Forest Gloyd, Ashville, and Robert Terry, a Kentuckian, recently given Mansfield reformatory sentences on forgery charges, were taken to the institution Wednesday morning by Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

James Wensfield and Pete Adams, Kentuckians, and Bronson Mounts, Waverly, were taken to the institution Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver. Wensfield and Adams admitted an auto theft charge and Mounts was sentenced for violation of a parole.

Breaks Air Mark

FLYING is just a sidelight of his, but Howard Hughes, above, youthful movie producer, showed up veteran pilots by breaking the transcontinental airplane speed record with the time of nine hours 27 minutes and 10 seconds in flight from Los Angeles to Newark, N. J. Hughes' mark shattered Col. Roscoe Turner's record of 10 hours 2 minutes and 27 seconds set last year.

Young Mother on First Journey Denied Fright

MEMPHIS, Jan. 15.—(UP).—Attorney John T. Shea, passenger on the ill-fated airliner, "The Southerner," from Nashville to Memphis, was stunned today when informed of the crash.

"To think that all those people I have just been with are dead," he said.

Shea and another passenger left the plane here. Four passengers boarded the ship.

"There was a mother on the ship not more than 30 years old and her little son on the plane," Shea said. "He was a lively youngster."

(Mrs. Samuel Horowitz, 35, of Boston, and her 5-year-old son, Seba.)

Shea said the hostess served dinner soon after the plane left Nashville all the passengers were at ease, a few engaged in conversation, and the trip to Memphis was most pleasant.

Mrs. Horowitz, Shea said, sat directly in front of him. She had not traveled in a plane before but insisted she was not afraid. But Shea noticed she hardly moved in the hour and twenty minutes between Nashville and Memphis.

which indicated to him that she was at least a little nervous. Mrs. Shea overheard a conversation among the four men who boarded the plane here. "Two men came to the airport together," she said. "I heard one say he wanted some insurance. He asked the porter how much it would cost for $25,000. The porter said $5. The man asked about $10,000 and the porter said it would cost $2.50. I did not hear whether or not he bought it."

"Another man came to the airport with a man and a woman. The last word he said to them was, 'I certainly enjoyed my day in Memphis.'"

Federal Judge Refuses Writ for State of Execution for Carpenter

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 15.—(UP).—Bruno Richard Hauptmann will appeal again to the United States Supreme court to save him from electrocution Friday night, his attorneys announced today.

At the same time attorney General David T. Wilentz, Hauptmann's prosecutor, said he had learned on "reliable authority" that Gov. Harold G. Hoffman will grant Hauptmann a reprieve if the appeal fails.

Hauptmann's attorneys virtually admitted that they believed further court action futile, but planned to fight until the last.

The Supreme court already has ruled, in effect, that Hauptmann's constitutional rights were not violated in his Flemington trial last January and a lower federal court refused last night to rule on the same question again.

Writ Plea Denied

The lower court decision was in the form of a denial, by Judge J. Warren Davis of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

SCHOOL DEBATE TEAM IS VICTOR IN INITIAL TRY

Circleville high school's negative debate team, in its first effort, defeated Amanda Tuesday evening. Both teams are member of the High School Debate league.

Members of the local team were Mary Elizabeth Groce, John Griffith, and Hilaire Haecker, alternates.

Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio university ladies' debating teams will appear in the local high school Thursday afternoon. The public is invited to hear the debate which will start at 2:30 o'clock.

YOUNG SUCCEEDS EBERT AS MEMORIAL HALL HEAD

Ralph Ward and William Betts, were re-elected president and secretary of the Memorial Hall Trustees association, respectively, at the organization meeting night.

Robert J. Young was named superintendent of the hall succeeding Ed Ebert, who was recently re-elected to be the board and resigned. Earl Smith was appointed to succeed Mr. Ebert and elected treasurer.

The next meeting of the board will be held Tuesday, Feb. 11.

SERIES OF DAMS LISTED IN PLAN FOR WPA LABOR

Sportsmen, Conservation Department Support Stream Control Program

A WPA project for the construction of a number of small dams in Pickaway-co streams, sponsored by the state Department of Conservation and the Farmer's and Sportsman's association, will be presented to WPA officials in Chillicothe this week for approval.

The project will be submitted by Vattier Courtwright, local engineer, as the result of action taken by the sportsmen Tuesday night to pay material costs, and obtain contracts with the land owners. Sportsmen have also agreed to keep the dams in repair after they are constructed.

Use Logs, Stones

The location of the dams has not been determined but preliminary selection of sites will be made by sportsmen and a representative of the conservation department, the project states. Logs and stones will be used for the work. They will not be large and material costs will consist largely of nails, wire and lag screws.

The purpose of the dams is to retard strong currents during high water periods and help maintain the streams in dry weather, provide watering places for stock, raise the water table in wells, provide better fishing and water for irrigation purposes and aid in combating drouth.

The dams will be constructed so as not to involve danger to property either up or downstream. Numerous plans have been offered for their construction and they will be placed in sites where they will be a benefit to landowners.

TRUSTEES NAME W. E. CRIST HEAD OF SINKING FUND

W. E. Crist was elevated to the presidency of the trustees of the sinking fund and tax commission Wednesday morning at the board's organization meeting in the city building.

N. E. Reichelderfer, appointed by Mayor W. J. Graham as successor to George G. Adkins, president in 1935, was sworn in by the mayor.

B. F. Benford, who had two years yet to serve as a member of the board, handed in his resignation because of ill health. It was accepted and another member will be appointed by the board with the approval of Mayor Graham.

The other member of the board is O. S. Howard and Miss Lillian Young, city auditor, secretary.

VETO OF BONUS SEEN IN WHITE HOUSE CIRCLES

F. D. R.'s Stand Against Payment Until Budget is Balanced Recalled

ATTITUDE IS UNCHANGED

No Statement Concerning Action Made Officially By President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(UP).—President Roosevelt is expected to veto the bonus bill when it finally arrives at his desk, it was predicted today in sources close to the White House.

Friends of the chief executive pointed out that so far as they could determine, there was no change in Mr. Roosevelt's frequently expressed attitude against immediate payment of the Adjusted Service compensation certificates.

Stand Is Expressed

They recall that during the 1932 campaign he expressed a stand against payment and also again in the veto message that spelled doom to the bonus bill passed in the closing days of the first session of the present congress.

Meanwhile, the White House was sitting tight and saying nothing officially regarding the bonus measure.

Friends of Mr. Roosevelt presented their interpretation of his attitude when reports were circulated in congress that some persons were betting that Mr. Roosevelt would approve the bonus bill.

It was recalled that last year in his veto message, Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that the obligation to pay the bonus in full would not arise until 1945 and that, consequently, the government was not obligated to pay at this time.

Must Balance Budget

In his Pittsburgh speech he would be for the bonus only when there was a balanced budget and a cash surplus in the treasury that could meet such a demand.

'HOME' OFFICIAL FACES EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

UPPER SANDUSKY, Jan. 15.—(UP).—Troy A. Dahn, 60, secretary-treasurer of the Reformed church home for the aged here, was to be arraigned today before Justice of the Peace F. E. Weldau on a warrant charging him with embezzlement of $11,000 of the home's money.

Dahn, member of the Toledo commission of publicity and efficiency, was arrested at his home in Toledo by Wyandot-co officers.

The warrant was filed by Rev. G. W. Good, pastor of the Reformed church here. The shortages allegedly extended over three years.

YOUTHFUL FUGITIVE ARRESTED BY POLICE

Harold Willison, 14, Hillsboro, who escaped from the Lancaster Boys Industrial school last Sunday, was identified by local police Tuesday night when he asked lodging in the "hobo" room. He was returned to the institution Wednesday.

Police Chief William McCrady noticed the boy was wearing overalls and questioned him about his home. He was confused on his location and closer examination by the chief revealed he was wearing his school suit under the overalls.

BOLANDER TO ADDRESS TEACHERS AND PUPILS

An hourly schedule for officials each district and township to meet with the commission has been issued by the auditor's office.

ILL-FATED PLANE PILOTED BY REAL VETERAN OF AIR

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 15.—(UP).—Jerry Marshall, pilot of the American airlines ship that crashed with the loss of 17 lives, was a veteran of eight years' flying transport planes and his experience dated back to barnstorming days when he headed an itinerant flying circus.

Marshall learned to fly at the Army air schools at Brooks and Kelly fields in Texas. Later he taught aviation at the University of Texas. He attended the Universities of Texas and New Mexico and took two years at Purdue. His widow lives here.

Glenn Freeland, the co-pilot, also is survived by his widow who lives here. They were married six months ago.

Miss Perala Gasparini, 23, had been employed as a hostess on the Memphis-Fort Worth flight since October. She was a trained nurse and her home was in Memphis.

First National Elects Ralph Curtin Director to Fill Lone Vacancy

Stockholders of Circleville three national banks and of the at Williamsport and New Haven, heard glowing reports of the business, and of the outlook for 1936, then elected their directors when annual meetings were held Tuesday afternoon.

Faith in their directors was proved when only one bank requested a change. That was the First National bank where Ralph Curtin was added to the board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Col. C. E. Groce.

All directors re-elected the presidents: First, B. F. Benford; Second, O. S. Howard; Third, C. Shulze; Williamsport, G. F. Sticker, and New Haven, Gust Kirk.

Only minor changes were reported in the various organizations.

Second National bank promoted Joseph P. Benford to presidency and Arthur E. DeWitt, Bach as assistant cashier.

Other Second National bank officers are: directors, O. S. Howard, John C. Stevenson, E. A. Neff, Joseph P. Noecker, and D. S. Dunlap. Mr. Howard is president; Dunlap, D. Dowden, vice-president, and cashier. Homer Walters, William R. McLaughlin, and Mary E. Ebert were re-employed as bookkeepers.

The Third National bank directors promoted Leland E. Ponting from teller to assistant cashier as the only change in its organization. All directors, R. R. Baker, F. R. Caldwell, H. B. Coburn, Frank Lynch, Charles H. May, C. G. Shulze, and Clark Will, were re-elected. The officers are: Mr. Shulze, president; Mr. Will, vice-president; M. E. Noggle, vice-president and cashier; Mr. Ponting, assistant cashier, and Chas. Kraft and Robert Rader, bookkeepers.

Directors of the First National bank are: B. F. Benford, W. E. Crist, C. A. Leist, George P. Foreman, John D. Hummel, Ralph Curtin, and William T. Uim. Officers are: Mr. Benford, president; Mr. Uim, first vice president and cashier; Mr. Leist, second vice president; Harold Hott, assistant cashier; C. C. What's In a Name?—$2,000

WHAT'S in a name? Well, there may be $1,000 each in the names of these twins, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. O. Earl Lowe of Irwin, Pa., near Pittsburgh. Should the parents name them Rose and Marie and should it be decided the babies, now called "A" and "B", were the first twins of the new year, they will be enriched by $2,000, advertised gift of a motion picture concern. Nurse McCune of Allegheny hospital is holding the twins.

T. Robinson was in a difficult position. He has publicly endorsed the bill but would be in a dilemma if the president vetoes it. Both Robinson and Chairman Pat Harrison of the Senate finance committee are up for re-election this year.

Harrison will ask for unanimous consent tomorrow for immediate consideration. If this is denied it will be made an early order of business and the whole congressional action on the measure should be completed promptly.

The Senate finance committee voted, 15 to 2, to report the bond payment bill favorably after first voting, 18 to 0, to substitute it for the bill passed last week in the House.

CHURCH NOTICES

Dr. T. C. Harper, pastor of the United Brethren church, reports that there is every indication that the revival which has been in progress in his church since Jan. 5 is attracting wide interest. The audiences are increasing rapidly. Last night was Sunday School Night and the auditorium was filled. There was a fine representation from the Sunday School present and delegations from Lancaster, Ringgold, and other communities were present. The ministers of the city have been attending these services each evening and a splendid representation from the churches of the city attends each service.

Evangelist Dewey Whitwell spoke last evening on "The Hog Pen Experience." This was a searching message and eight souls were saved at the close of the service. Tonight will be Men's Night. The topic will be, "The Dead Line." The women will sing for the men and women ushers will be used.

The Rev. Ivan L. Wilkins of The Presbyterian Church of London will be the preacher at the preparatory services at the Presbyterian Church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Since coming to London Mr. Wilkins has accomplished an excellent work. He succeeded the Rev. Curtis Shields, who became chaplain of the London Prison farm.

"Human Side of News" to Come Three Days; White, Alvino Rey, Eddie House on Afternoon Program

Edwin C. Hill, news commentator, internationally known journalist and author, will be heard in a new series of "The Human Side of the News," each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:30 p. m., E. S. T., over an NBC-WEAF network, beginning Jan. 27.

Known as one of America's ace reporters, Hill started in the newspaper business in 1900 with the Indianapolis Sentinel, after graduating from Indiana University. He realized his ambition to be a New York reporter when he joined the New York Sun in 1903 and worked continuously on that paper for 23 years. He wrote the scenario for the screen production "The Iron Horse" which he later wrote into a novel. His later books include "The American Scene" and "The Human Side of the News."

Billy White, tenor; Alvino Rey, electric guitar soloist, and Eddie House, organist, now are being heard regularly on the Musical Revue over an NBC-WEAF network each Wednesday and Friday at 2:45 p. m., E. S. T., in the east and at 4:45 p. m., E. S. T., in the middle west and west.

The program, formerly titled Betty Marlowe and her Californians, also has shifted time for its early broadcasts, formerly heard in the east at 3:00 p. m., E. S. T.

White, Rey and House, the new members of the musical cast, are heard in addition to Bob Trendler, pianist, who has been featured on the program since its network debut.

White, now well-known to radio listeners for his high tenor voice, was until six years ago a rate clerk employed by a Chicago corporation. His voice teacher suggested that he study the banjo in order to improve his chances of finding employment with an orchestra. The banjo teacher recommended him to Johnny Maitland, orchestra leader, who immediately hired him. White later sang with the orchestras of Ted Fio Rito and Gus Arnheim before coming to radio as a soloist.

Rey, despite his Spanish moniker, is a Scotchman. He has acquired a national reputation for his work with dance orchestras. House likewise has been heard many times on the air.

Ohio Youths, Chosen by Legion, to Manage State

Purpose of June 21-30 Program is to Teach Boys Citizenship; School Authorities to Help

COLUMBUS, Jan. 17—(UP)—Youth of Ohio will be given a chance to show their elders how to govern, when—"Boy State," a tented city of newly graduated high school boys, operating their own state, county, city and township governments—will be held on the State Fair Grounds here, June 21 to 30.

The role purpose of the experiment, conducted under the auspices of the Ohio department of the American Legion, is to give the youth of today a better outlook on the burdens of citizenship which they will be expected to carry when they reach maturity. Selection of the boys, 500 of them are expected to participate, will be made by the individual American Legion Posts in the state. School authorities have been asked to aid in the selection of the deserving boys.

No Military Training
There will be no military formations and no attempt to teach military tactics.

The Camp is to be divided into two theoretical political parties. Competent persons in state, county and township life will act as instructors.

The election machinery is being set up by James Hurd of the Secretary of States office. State Supreme Judge Arthur H. Day of Cleveland is writing the judiciary phase of the program. State Senator Paul Gingham of Columbus is preparing the program for the legislative branch. Paul Bighlinger of Warren, the city phase and County Prosecutor Don Hoskins of Columbus the county and township program.

As a finale, it is planned to have the boys "set in" with state, county, city and township officials of Franklin-co to "run" the state machinery for a day.

Several Who Supported President Now Ready to Vote to Override Veto

(Copyright 1936 By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—(UP)—Enactment into law of the Senate soldiers' bonus bill was definitely assured today on the basis of a survey which showed sufficient voting strength to override a presidential veto.

President Roosevelt may not veto the bill in the face of the overwhelming Senate support for it. But if he does there will be ample votes to override. The Senate "compromise" bill will be brought up for a vote tomorrow.

The end of the 16-year fight over bonus payment to America's World War soldiers may come with far less drama than has attended many of the hot congressional fights over the issue.

Only Nine Short

On May 23 last, after the House had over-ridden the president's veto of the Patman bonus bill, the Senate sustained, 54 to 40, nine short of the necessary 63 to enact the bill into law.

Bonus advocates have picked up at least 10 and probably more votes by developing a bond or demand note—method of paying the bonus and substituting it for the inflationary type of measure on which the test case last year.

Senators who last year went "down the line" for the administration since then have seen their leaders go over to the bonus forces and several have come to the conclusion that they might as well join the procession.

A United Press poll of the Senate showed at least six votes for over-riding a veto, with several more doubtful ones expected to be in that column.

NEW DRIVE FOR TAX COLLECTION POWER IS BEGUN

Legislature May Vote; $157,-818 on Pickaway-Co's Delinquent Lists

A drive was begun today to push through the Legislature the bill to give the tax commission and the attorney general power to collect delinquent taxes in any county.

Defeated on partisan grounds last week, the measure is represented as a means of solving the financial problems of local governments.

Carlton S. Dargusch, vice-chairman of the tax commission, estimated that at least 50 to 55 per cent of the $200,000,000 in outstanding taxes could be collected over a three to four year period, and his views were concurred in by Rep. P. E. Ward (R) Geauga chairman of the House taxation committee and author of the bill. $157,818 in County—BF

If hopes were realized, it would mean that in Pickaway-co about half of the $157,818, outstanding in delinquent taxes at the beginning of the year, would be turned into the county's general fund by 1940.

While not mentioning any county in particular, tax officials assert that local political influences and friendship of the collecting agencies to tax payers are as much to blame for delinquencies as any other cause.

This bill, it is pointed out, would remove the local political influence and where county officials have become lax, would empower the attorney general to step in, with the aid of the tax commission, and start proceedings to force collections.

In Pickaway-co, there are outstanding on the basis of the 1935 collectable year, $7,596 in delinquent special assessments. The general tax delinquency in the county amounts to $150,222 making a grand total of $157,818.

The ratio of the amount paid in special assessments to the amount charged in Pickaway-co was placed at 40 per cent by the county auditor, as against the general state average of 18.34 per cent.

OHIO FUEL GAS OFFICE CHANGED

District Headquarters Now Athens; Phillips Manager

Central headquarters of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. in this district has been transferred from Chillicothe to Athens, officials have announced.

Harold M. Jay, manager of the Chillicothe district until a month ago, has taken over supervision of the Newark office. His place in Chillicothe has been taken by Howard Leckrone, formerly of Newark.

The new district supervisor is Frank W. Phillips of Athens.

Mr. Jay, while in charge of the office in this city, Chillicothe and others, did much valuable work for his company, two of his tasks being approval of new 5-year rate ordinances in both cities.

Although E. S. Roper retired Jan. 1 as cashier for the local office, his position has not yet been filled.

taxes paid under the outlawed AAA.

Counsel for Miller & Hart, Inc., packers, sought a court order modifying a temporary injunction issued several months ago and asked that $662,798 posted by the firm during processing tax litigation be released.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes postponed a hearing on the action until tomorrow at the request of the U. S. district attorney's office, which said the department of justice has not yet decided whether it will ask a rehearing on the AAA decision from the Supreme court. Other packers are expected to duplicate the Miller & Hart move within the next few days. The action is a sequel to the supreme court's decision Monday holding the AAA unconstitutional.

Each of the firms was forced to tie up funds in escrow pending outcome of suits to prevent collection of the processing tax. Processors over the nation posted approximately $200,000,000 in this manner, approximately a fourth of it being in Chicago, center of the packing industry.

With the prospect of recovering their $200,000,000, however, processors have the additional hope of forcing the government to repay approximately a billion dollars collected in taxes prior to last May and June.

In addition, packers have benefited from an upward reaction in their market stocks.

Wilson & Co. common rose $1.50 and the preferred was up $2.50. Swift common gained 50 cents. Cudahy 62½ cents and Armour 50 cents.

Housewives, on the other hand, paid from two and a half to four and a half cents less per pound for pork chops than they did before the AAA was outlawed.

AUDITORIUM IS SCENE OF NELSON EDDY CONCERT

COLUMBUS, Jan. 15—Nelson Eddy, popular young American baritone is certainly enjoying a meteoric rise to fame, judging from his Columbus appearance. Two years ago Eddy appeared on the regular Capital University concert lecture series and there were plenty of vacant seats in Mees hall, the campus auditorium. This year Eddy, who made his screen debut in the musical comedy hit, "Naughty Marietta," is again on the concert series and Har-monia, concert series to change appearance. Hall was by far the largest also the municipal hall. So finally the Columbus hall with a capacity of 2,000 was procured for the concert, which will be given Tuesday evening, January 28.

Nobel Prize in Medicine Amuses Medical Profession

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"THE NOBEL PRIZE in medicine this year," observed my old friend Dr. Adrian Gibbs, "seems to have the breasts of the profession."

"The prize is given to Prof. Hans Spemann of Freiburg, on account of his work on the organ producing effect of certain tissue transplants. When the dissected portion of the upper lip of the primitive orifice of the larva of the water newt is transplanted to another part of the body of the animal, it has a peculiar effect on the cells in its neighborhood. They obtain, through the action of the implant, a new quality which allows them to develop into the organ which would have formed at the spot where the implant was obtained. It is not the cells of the implant itself which develop in this way, because the phenomenon occurs even if the implant is dead. The action must be chemical, but what the nature of the chemical is has not been determined.

"My friends who are in practical medicine are inclined to giggle at this, and it does seem a long jump from the effect of the upper lip of the primitive orifice of the water newt on the cells in the neighborhood if it is transplanted, to the question of what to do for a baby with the croup.

"But I don't know. You never can tell what use a fact is going to be in practical medicine. Do you remember what Ben Franklin said about the time everyone was excited about the early balloons? Someone asked, 'What good is it?' and

Franklin answered, 'What good is a baby?'

"I imagine Galvani would have received the Nobel prize if there had been one in 1791, for his discovery that the use of electricity applied to the nerve of a frog's leg would throw the muscles into contraction. Here is the passage translated in this little medical magazine:

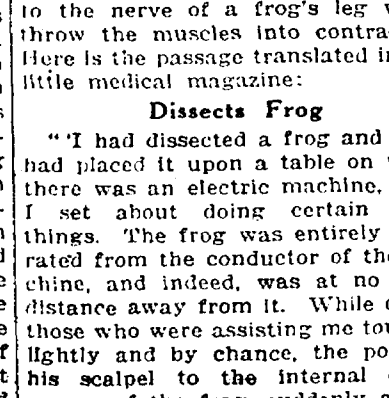

Dissects Frog

"I had dissected a frog and . . . had placed it upon a table on which there was an electric machine, while I set about doing certain other things. The frog was entirely separated from the conductor of the machine, and indeed, was at no small distance away from it. While one of those who were assisting me touched, lightly and by chance, the point of his scalpel to the internal crural nerves of the frog, suddenly all the muscles of its limbs were seen to be so contracted that they seemed to have fallen into tonic convulsions."

"It couldn't have seemed that there was any practical application to be made of the fact that a frog's nerve carried a charge of electricity, but as a result, the whole world is covered with wires, and messages are delivered and conversations held between parties a thousand miles distant.

"There are very few useless scientific facts. The nearest approach I know is the cremasteric reflex—it is absolutely useless, but perfectly beautiful."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendenning can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

ORGANIZING FOR SAFETY

It is gratifying to note that the federal government, aroused over the size of the nation's annual accident toll, has taken steps to coordinate safety activities with a view to development of a nationwide program in which civic organizations, industrial interests, educational units, highway agencies, newspapers, magazines state and municipal bodies will cooperate.

At a recent Washington conference, the following ideas were emphasized as indicating the need for vigorous action:

That more than 100,000 lives are lost every year in accidents on land and sea and in the air.

That more than 9,000,000 persons are injured annually.

That the nation each year suffers an economic loss running into the billions.

That the toll of deaths and injuries exceeds the total of American casualties in the World war.

NEW COLLEGE SPIRIT

The "College graduate" is not the man he was in days past when that title was something of the nature of a patent of nobility, as well as intellectual nobility. Even that class, as a class, is seeing to it that its sons are not going the way their fathers did. Consequently, as Frederick P. Keppel, president of the Carnegie Corporation, says in his annual report to the trustees, the "outlook is more hopeful," with educators keeping pace with the changes.

President Keppel notes that college presidents today are being chosen by trustees "more for what may be called their educational imagination than for any hoped-for capacity to raise large funds." That is good news. Colleges have to have endowments, it is true, but the head of a great educational institution needs other qualities than those of a hat-passer.

In the student himself Dr. Keppel sees a changed viewpoint. "The new generation is wider-ranging in its interests," he says, "has a refreshing sense of reality and a growing appreciation of the nature of its four-year investment." There is a "pro-

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

"NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT," SAID FDR AT VERY MOMENT

ROBERTS BLASTED AAA

WASHINGTON—At 11:30 a. m. of the historic AAA decision was handed down by the Supreme Court, President Roosevelt was holding a conference regarding the Farm Tenant Bill.

Simultaneously the Nine Old Men who knocked the foundation out from under his New Deal legislation were about to put on their black robes and go on the bench.

Sitting with Roosevelt in the White House were Secretary of Agriculture Wallace; Will Alexander, who is Tugwell's right hand man on tenant farming; Marvin Jones, chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture; and Lee Pressman, legal adviser to Tugwell.

Plans were being laid for pushing the Farm Tenant Bill through the House as soon as possible. Passed by the Senate last session, the bill provides for a billion dollar corporation by which the Government buys land for tenant farmers and helps them get started on it.

The President explained that for political reasons he wanted this bill passed as soon as possible. Turning to Representative Jones of the Agriculture Committee, he said:

"Marvin, what about getting hearings started by your committee within the next three weeks?"

"But, Mr. President," replied Jones, "don't you think we had better not hurry? Remember we may have to pass some legislation for the AAA after the Supreme Court hands down its decision."

"I doubt it," replied the President. "I don't think we'll have anything serious to worry about."

Twenty minutes later, Justice Roberts began reading the momentous AAA decision. And shortly after the Tenant conference adjourned, news of the decision was placed on the President's desk.

AAA PARENTS

Now that the AAA is dead, it is interesting to recall who wrote it.

It was a composite child, spawned by Henry Wallace, an ex-Republican; together with Professor M. L. Wilson of Montana State College, now Assistant Secretary of Agriculture; and Mordecai Ezekiel, a Harding appointee to the Department of Agriculture and a Hoover appointee as economist to the Federal Farm Board.

It was drafted chiefly by Fred Lee, a Democrat, who served as legislative draftsman of the Senate during two Republican Administrations.

found dislocation in accustomed thought and actions" as a symptom of the last few years. A heaven is working in the American college, Dr. Keppel observes, with satisfaction.

MURDER UPSTAIRS

ADAM BLISS

CHAPTER 45

"WHY SHOULD the murderer search Della's room?" I asked Larrabee. "His work was done? There was nothing to take. Grace said that the last time she saw the gloves, they were in the pocket of Della's uniform. That was about 2 or 3 o'clock, yesterday. It seems to me that when Della undressed they would remain there."

Larrabee smiled. "Unless, Mrs. Penny. Della removed the gloves and put them away, under her pillow, or something like that. On the bed, in her hands. If Hemingway was the light of Della's life, as Grace says, isn't it probable that because they were his gloves, she would keep them near her? I think it reasonable to conclude that Della Randall took the gloves from the pocket of her dress when she undressed, carried the gloves to bed with her, perhaps forgot them when she heard a knock at the door, and then when she got up, the gloves fell to the floor and remained there until we found Della, later. The gloves were on the floor near the head of the bed, a queer place for them to be."

"It sounds logical." "I like your mind, Mrs. Penny. It responds quickly. The gloves, Grace said nothing to me last night about them when I talked with her, and nothing about Martin Hemingway. Now, then, is that all you, talked about to Grace in the trunk room? My man said you were in there for three-quarters of an hour."

"That's all, Lieutenant Larrabee," I lied, firmly.

"And what took you so long with Janet Bell? Was she telling you the story of the dagger?"

"Yes." "Strange that that, too, should take three-quarters of an hour. Buckle up, Larrabee, we have a report on Mrs. Rippe."

"The writer of this letter is dead, sir. Died two years ago, in Europe. Husband is still abroad. Nothing developed from this lead."

Larrabee thanked him shortly and turned to me.

"Are you sure that was all Janet told you, Mrs. Penny?"

"Quite sure, and she didn't kill either Andrew Darian or Della!"

"I couldn't help flaring up on that. He was looking at me so queerly. 'You're very trusting, Mrs. Penny. That's the only thing that's wrong with your logic. You let your heart sway you. Very bad in this business—'

"But I'm not in your business, Kirk Larrabee."

"True, you're not, but you've got a wonderful knack of making people like you. You've got a God-given faculty for getting information out of people because they like and trust you. You're wasting your time keeping a boarding house, Mrs. Penny."

"I didn't know whether to feel flattered or not. He might be making fun of me."

"I know these people, that's why they tell me things—" I said, slowly.

"No, it isn't that. I think you could get the confidence of a hard-boiled longshoreman if you really set out to do it. What else did Janet tell you, Mrs. Penny?"

"Flattering me. I'd tell him I wasn't going to, of course, but I was utterly unprepared when he tossed a telegram on my lap. I read it carefully, every word of it. It was addressed to him."

IS JANET BELL MENTIONED IN DARIEN MURDER HOUSE SAME JANET BELL WHOSE BROTHER JERALD BELL ESCAPED FROM COUNTY JAIL SEATTLE IN NOVEMBER STOP GIRL IS 21 YEARS OLD BLONDE DARK BROWN EYES SMALL ALMOST INVISIBLE SCAR ABOVE LEFT EYEBROW STOP WIDOWED FORTY-SEVEN HEIGHT FIVE FEET ONE INCH STOP ANSWER IMMEDIATELY STOP WATCH HER IF SAME GIRL FOR CLUE TO BROTHERS WHEREABOUTS STOP WANT HIM BADLY STOP SENDING PHOTOGRAPHS AIR MAIL LONDON CHIEF OF POLICE SEATTLE

"I got that last night, Mrs. Penny, and I've already answered it. Janet Bell is certainly the girl they want, and I told them that."

"I also informed them that the letters she has been getting at your house have all been postmarked from New York. No name on the envelopes, however. But Miss Cambridge was able to give me the information I wanted. She's a mine of knowledge about everybody in the house, and she isn't bothered with your scruples, Mrs. Penny."

I handed back the telegram, and got up, but Larrabee waved me back to my chair. I had to sit down again, worried all through, wondering what was coming next. Poor Janet. The blow had fallen.

Larrabee tapped the yellow telegram with his pen.

"I'm not hunting bank robbers, Mrs. Penny. I'm hunting the murderer of two people at the present time, and I'm going to find him. If I thought Janet Bell knew anything about the murders of Darian and Della, I'd arrest her this minute. I can see how she might have murdered Darian, but I can't figure out a reason or opportunity for her to kill Della."

"You won't tell me what she told you about herself, but perhaps I can make a pretty good guess from what Hemingway overheard and what she was forced to admit to me."

"Of course the letter she found pushed under her door mentioned her brother. She went to Darian about it. He was a blackmailer. We've established that definitely. How he found out who Janet Bell was I can't imagine, but I'm sure he must have discovered it some way. Perhaps he thought she had some of the stolen money, or could get it, and demanded a share of it to keep silent. Perhaps he wanted something else. That's very possible.

"The whole crux of my case against Janet lies on the time she found the note under her door. If she found it right after dinner, she would have had the opportunity to take the carving knife from the dining room buffet, wait until Darian went to his room, go in and kill him. The note was put under her door immediately after dinner. Darian went upstairs alone, but came right down again. Hemingway was with him when he went up again at 11, and Darian went right into his own room."

"Therefore, he didn't put the note under the door then. He must have done it when he went up the first time. Hemingway thinks that Darian never left his room from 11 to 11:30. And so Janet goes upstairs after dinner, after Darian's trip, mind you, finds the note, reads it, burns it, comes downstairs, goes into the dining room, steals the knife, makes another trip upstairs—for she did go upstairs twice before she finally retired—hides the knife. Later she goes to Darian's room, carrying the knife. It all fits."

"It can't fit," I protested. "Why should she steal a knife when she already had one—her dagger?"

"Beautiful, Mrs. Penny. I didn't know whether you'd see the flaw in my case or not. Janet had a knife. This one." He picked up the dagger.

"It's rather small, and perhaps Janet didn't think it would do the work. After all it isn't a large knife, and it is dull. It might not kill at one blow. She was sure of the carving knife. It would do an assassin's job. See?"

"Why would she kill Della, too?" "That's what I don't know, Mrs. Penny. That's where the very high brick wall is standing in my mind. I can't climb over it. Janet doesn't seem to fit as a girl with homicidal tendencies. She seems normal—I can understand her distress now that I know about her mother and her escape from jail before his trial. She naturally would be greatly alarmed. I can explain that, and I can build up a pretty fair reason why she would want Andrew Darian out of the way, but I can't explain the ruthless killing of Della by ascribing it to Janet. She only knew her as a maid in the house."

"There are two things that might account for it—one, that Janet is a killer, which her entire attitude and makeup belie, and the other is that Della might have learned from Darian about Janet's brother. Far fetched, of course, because I think if Della had known she would have told me. She was inclined to hysteria, but she was honest as the day is long, even if she did take Hemingway's gloves secretly from his pocket."

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

In adapting "Seven Keys to Baldpate" to the screen with Gene Raymond under his new long-term contract headlined, RKO Radio has chosen a play that is of considerable importance in the history of the American theatre.

In 1913 George M. Cohan dared to shatter a well-established theatrical tenet, sniggered at all previous mystery thrillers, and wrote "Seven Keys to Baldpate" as a spine-tingler to end all mysteries.

Before Cohan's historic experiment, chills were inclined to be ponderously horrible, even gory. More, they had been governed by the rule that the audience was always to know what the characters didn't—was never to be ignorant of what was going to happen, or who was going to murder whom. Suspense was to be kept, according to the tenet, only through interest in things would work out.

A CONTRAST

The sad looking man in the tenement area leaned over the banisters and caught the visitor before she could disappear down a hole in the staircase.

"I wonder," said the visitor indignantly, "the landlord doesn't do something to repair this wretched building."

"Well," said the slum dweller, "he was going to do something about it, until he went on a tour to Naples and saw the ruins of Pompeii. Now he thinks this isn't too bad."

Poems That Live

FOREVER

Those we love truly never die, Though year by year the sad memorial wreath, A ring and flowers, types of life and death, Are laid upon their graves.

For death the pure life saves, And life all pure is love; and love can reach From heaven to earth, and nobler lessons teach Than those by mortals read.

Well blest is he who has a dear one dead: A friend he has whose face will never change— A dear communion that will not grow strange: The anchor of a love is death.

The blessed sweetness of a loving breath Will reach our cheek all fresh through weary years. For her who died long since, ah! waste not ears, She's thine unto the end.

Thank God for one dear friend, With face still radiant with the light of truth, Whose love comes laden with the scent of youth, Through twenty years of death.

O. E. S. Initiates Two Candidates Tuesday

Out-of-town Guests, Grand Officers in Group of 70

An interesting meeting was conducted by the local chapter Order of the Eastern Star Tuesday evening when it initiated two candidates. Seventy members were in the group attending and several grand officers and out-of-town guests were present.

Following the opening of the chapter Miss Virginia Marion, conductress, presented the grand officers, including C. C. Chaplain, past grand patron; Miss Marie Hamilton, associate grand patron; P. R. Devore of Columbus, associate grand patron, and Mrs. Hazel Wood, deputy grand patron of the twenty-third district. These grand officers gave short talks just prior to the closing of the chapter.

Other officers presented by Miss Marion were several 1936 worthy matrons and patrons of Columbus chapters; past matrons of Circleville chapter, and past matrons and patrons of other neighboring chapters present.

After the business session, the initiatory work was put on by local officers and during the work music was furnished by Mrs. Alonzo Marion and Elza Radcliff. Miss Eloise Hilyard and Mrs. Edith Vlerobome were the candidates.

A beautiful and impressive memorial service in charge of some of the officers followed the initiation. The service was in memory of three members, Mrs. Anna Hall, Mrs. Agnes Strahm and Noah G. Spangler, who died during the past year.

A social hour followed the closing of the chapter and refreshments were served under the chairmanship of Mrs. Sam Morris who was assisted by Mrs. W. S. Gearhart and Mrs. George Valentine.

N. Porter, Philadelphia. H. W. Plato, Laredo, Tex. Pilot Jerry Marshall, 40. Co-Pilot Glenn Freeland, 32. Hostess Perla Gasparini, 24. C. R. Smith, president of American Airlines, ordered an immediate investigation from Fort Worth, where news of the tragedy reached him. Department of commerce officials in Washington ordered an investigation. But circumstances of the disaster indicated that a full explanation might never be known.

Pilot An Expert

The plane was flying through a calm, clear night. There were a few clouds above 5,000 feet but visibility apparently was excellent. She was 15 minutes out of Memphis when she reported by radio that all was well. That was the last heard from Pilot Marshall, a veteran transport flier regarded by his employers as one of the most expert in the business.

The plane left Memphis at 7 p. m. The pilot had inspected his plane and judged her in first class condition. Her next scheduled stop was Little Rock, Arkansas. She was flying over the flat Arkansas swamp and rich farm land adjacent to the Mississippi. At least four emergency landing fields were available in the immediate vicinity. Fifteen minutes after leaving Memphis, Co-Pilot Freeland radioed:

"Twenty-five miles west of Memphis. Flying 3,000 feet. Scattered clouds at 4,500. Temperature 55."

"Okay," said the Memphis operator. Minutes passed and stretched into a half hour. Memphis expected another report from the Southerner. None came. Memphis sent an inquiring call. No answer.

Memphis was not alarmed until an hour later, when Little Rock reported the Southerner overdue. The air became charged instantly with messages directed at the Southerner. No answer.

Heard by Farmer

As well as comparative times

evening where they were among guests at a dinner party.

Mrs. Robert Gearhart, N. Court-st, returned Tuesday from a few days' visit with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Stoker, in Columbus. Her daughter motored her home.

Mrs. Joseph Sittler returned Wednesday to her home in Columbus after a few days' visit with her sister, Mrs. I. N. Abernethy, Northridge-rd.

could be established, George Jones, a farmer living two miles north of Goodwin and a mile from the swamp where the wreckage was found, heard an airplane over his home 45 minutes after the Southerner told Memphis that all was well. Suddenly, as Jones listened—he thought the plane was flying unusually low—a motor sputtered and quit. An instant later he heard a heavy crash.

Goodwin is 45 miles east-southeast from Memphis. Jones' news, telephoned to the Memphis airport, mustered several score men from Forrest City, nearby, Goodwin, and the countryside. Soon more scores arrived from Memphis and soon the searching parties had scattered and were slush-slushing through the dank and oozing swamp lands.

Soon after 1 a. m., the searchlights of the searchers picked out the wreckage of the Southerner. The cabin had been smashed and partly buried in rancid swamp water and mud. Light through the broken portholes revealed blood—gruesomeness indescribable. Bodies were found scattered about. Wreckage of the plane circled the cabin for two hundred yards around.

One motor had been smashed back into the plane. Another was a hundred yards away, buried in ooze.

The rescuers, plodded back through the swamp, water and mud often knee deep, to the road where farmers were waiting with wagons and mules which were led back to the scene. These were used to carry the bodies to the road, where they were placed in ambulances and sent to Forrest City.

Rumors Discounted

Airline authorities and air transport experts were at a loss to explain the crash. If one motor had failed, they said, Pilot Marshall surely could have kept his ship in the air. If both had failed, emergency fields were available. Excited rumors of sabotage were heard at Memphis airport, but these were discounted.

The curious and relatives of the victims began gathering at the company's airports along the line soon after the news of the crash spread. The plane left New York at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday. It made stops at Philadelphia, Washington, Nashville, and Memphis.

The accident was the worst in the history of American commercial aviation. The highest toll previously was 16 killed when a transport plane crashed and burned near Oceanside, Calif., Jan. 19, 1930.

Needlework That's Fun in the Making

"Perfect!" exclaims Ann, as she uses her friend Marge to model the sleeve and yoke of the new jiffy-knit she's making. It's going to be a nifty little affair—with the yoke ending in a soft jabot-tie. An Alice Brooks pattern—and so is that graceful crocheted dress that sets Ann off so beautifully. The lacy effect of this dress, its lovely cowl neck and short sleeve make it a top-notch for you to make for Spring or Summer. You'd also get a world of satisfaction out of crocheting some lovely lace medallions like those Marge is working on. They're simply grand for chair set, scarfs, table cloths.

Blouse pattern is Y5365, sizes 16 to 18 and 38 to 40. Dress pattern is Y5255, sizes 16 to 18 and 38 to 40. Medallion pattern is Y5390.

Sportsmen to Introduce New Game Bird in County

Chukar Partridge, Native of India, May Provide Sport; H. E. Betz Re-Nominated for Club Presidency

By FRANKLIN KIBLER

Local nimrods, who are lovers of wing shooting, may be training their dogs and guns on a new game bird in Pickaway-co in the near future.

The new bird is the Chukar partridge, introduced to the Pickaway Farmers' and Sportsmen's association Tuesday night by Ed Rausenberger, and Roy Beatty. Rausenberger plans to purchase 20 eggs this spring and Mr. Beatty, operator of the local hatchery, will hatch them. If their efforts are successful the birds will be liberated on local preserves.

Efforts to transplant the common partridge in this county have so far been unsuccessful and the sportsmen believe this new bird will take its place.

Scioto 5 TAKES 28-27 THRILLER

Pickaway Falls By One Point; Muhlenberg is Victor

Scioto-twp's eagles, on their home court, protected a tiny lead gained at half-time and defeated the Pickaway-twp quintet, 28-27 in one of the most thrilling frays of the year.

Scioto led one point at the half and with only a few seconds to go ahead by three counters. A Pickaway lead pegged a goal, but there was not time enough for another shot, and the game ended. Both teams were even in goals but Scioto held a one point edge in free throws getting four to three through the net.

Anderson, a sophomore, and Rhoades, forwards, led the Pickaway scoring with 13 and 12 respectively, while Dennis, Williams, and Beavers divided the bulk of the Scioto points.

Pickaway girls added to their chance for a place in the tourney when they white-washed the Commercial Point girls, 22 to 0. Pickaway reserves won 24-20 when they held the Scioto boys to one point in the second half after the first two quarters ended 19-9 in favor of Scioto.

Muhlenberg-twp and Walnut-twp split a double bill on the Darbyville court, the home boys winning and the girls losing. Scores were: boys, 24-17, and girls, 12-26.

Ankrom and Dean did most of Muhlenberg's scoring while Martin was high for the losers.

BOWLING NEWS

matters pending before the club resulted in a reduction in the number of Missouri cotton-tails to be purchased for spring distribution. The club had planned to purchase 300 but this number was reduced to 12 dozen. In addition Mr. Rausenberger has a personal order for 40. The bunnies will be about two-thirds grown when they arrive.

Bulletin Is Read

A bulletin from the conservation department that no closed season on streams had been established for the period from Jan. 1 to July 1, was read before the association.

In the near future the association plans to hold monthly meetings and organize warfare against foxes, crows and stray cats. A number of members reported they believed it foolish to purchase game and then have it destroyed by these killers. Poison gas, handled by an experienced worker, is being considered for foxes.

A recommendation to pay Harry Bartholomew a small salary to take care of the expense involved in collecting license fees throughout the county and handling other work of the organization was discussed and tabled until the next meeting.

The next meeting will be a called session and committees will be appointed to make plans for the annual banquet.

CLUB FIVE WINS IN 29 TO 21 TILT

Terhune Tallies 17 Points as Small Crowd Watches

A mere handful of fans saw the Circleville Athletic club cage team turn back a Chillicothe City club aggregation Tuesday evening by a 29-21 score. The local crew showed a big improvement over its game against Columbus Moby's New Year's.

Bob Terhune, CAC captain and forward, showed the way to both teams by piling up 17 points, most of which came on under-the-net shots. Taggart was Chillicothe's best man but he made a mighty poor percentage of his shots, getting the ball and pegging it toward the net from any point inside the middle of the court.

Groveport Independents notified CACA manager, Judy Gordon, at 6:30 that they could not appear for the preliminary so a gang of pick-ups headed by Jaggy Davis played the club Juniors. The Juniors, led by Leasure and Grant, won 26 to 10.

GODFREY ENDS RUMOR ABOUT TOLEDO POST

COLUMBUS, Jan. 15 (UP)—Ernest R. Godfrey, line coach at Ohio State, today spiked reports he was interested in the position of head football coach and athletic director at the University of Toledo.

After Ray Watts, Baldwin-Wallace, announced he had declined the Toledo offer and would remain at the Berea school, Godfrey's name was brought into the picture.

Reports have been recurrent here for sometime that Raymond Wolf, of Texas Christian university, would be brought to Ohio State as an assistant to Head Coach Francis A. Schmidt, and these have lent credence to the belief Godfrey might transfer to another school.

Bidding of above hand went:
South Diamond West 1 Heart

Sitting South I had 4-Hearts to play, doubled by West. Had a club been led, as was done at some tables, two club tricks and two major suit tricks must have been lost. Luckily West made an opening lead of his Ace made an opening lead of his Ace of diamonds, as his partner had supposed that suit call. Dummy ruffed. This happened at several other tables as well. I led dummy's 6 of hearts. At other tables the trump finesse was taken, and lost, then came a shift to clubs, with loss of two tricks, followed by the final loss of a spade, causing declarer to go down a trick. I saw at least 5-odd by refusing the heart finesse.

Winning with my Ace of hearts

North: 1-Spade; South: 2-Diamonds;
North: 2-Spades; South: 2-No
Trumps; North: 3-No Trumps, when he should have rebid spades.

The opening lead was the Q of hearts. I dared not decline to win the trick. I led off the Ace of diamonds. Normal play was to lead dummy's last diamond, and finesse, but I could not afford to take a spade finesse and lose, nor could I afford to at once play dummy's Ace of spades. Driven by necessity I led another top diamond. My troubles were over. The Q fell, leaving me six diamond tricks, one heart trick and our two side Aces, giving us just game.

 MOTHER: BUT, BETH! THESE ARE SUCH GOOD CLOTHES! ARE YOU SURE YOU WANT TO GIVE THEM AWAY?
 DAUGHTER: WELL, IT WOULDN'T BE MUCH USE IF YOU GAVE CLOTHES THAT WEREN'T ANY GOOD!

PANEL 2: The mother is still holding the dress.
 MOTHER: OH, IF ONLY OTHERS WOULD ACT IN THE SAME SPIRIT! WHAT A LOT OF SUFFERING COULD BE RELIEVED!
 DAUGHTER: THAT'S WHAT I WANTED TO SPEAK TO YOU ABOUT.

PANEL 3: The mother is sitting on a bench, looking thoughtful.
 MOTHER: - SO, IF YOU ASKED THEM DON'T YOU THINK THE CLASS WOULD EACH TRY TO BRING A LITTLE SOMETHING?
 DAUGHTER: I'M SURE THEY WOULD. IT'S A SPLENDID IDEA AND I'LL SPEAK TO THEM TODAY.

PANEL 4: The mother is standing and talking to the daughter.
 MOTHER: AND YOU MAY BE SURE I'LL FIND SOME WAY TO HAVE IT ALL DISTRIBUTED, TOO!
 DAUGHTER: 'CAUSE YOU KNOW BETTER HOW TO DO THAT THAN WE.

OHIO BAKERS CHOOSE W. E. WALLACE AS PRESIDENT

ANNUAL CONFAB COMES TO END; NOYES SELECTED

Local Man to Serve Association Through Year; Columbus Wins Convention

W. E. Wallace, 425 N. Court-st., proprietor of the Wallace bakery, W. Main-st., today had been honored with election as president of the Ohio Bakers' association. The annual convention closed Tuesday afternoon in Toledo.

Mr. Wallace has long been active in baking association circles, and has served on its board of directors. He succeeds Edward M. Balduf of Toledo.

Other officers include: vice president, Thomas A. Catlan of Toledo; treasurer, Karl F. Faelchle of Columbus, and secretary, Frank E. Noyes of Columbus. Columbus was chosen by the bakers for the 1937 convention.

Mr. Wallace will serve through 1936.

MOTHER, 50, KILLS THREE CHILDREN, TRIES SUICIDE

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Jan. 15. (UP)—Mrs. Sarah Oberly, 50, wife of the Chester-co agricultural agent, beat her three children to death today as they lay in their beds and then attempted to hang herself.

The dead were: Mary, 17, high school senior; Joseph, Jr., 10; and Louise, 8.

Mrs. Oberly, with a strand of telephone cord around her neck, was found beside the children's bed. She was taken to the West Chester-co. hospital. Physicians said she would recover.

The children's father, Joseph Oberly, was reported attending an agricultural conference.

Near the children's bed lay a steel bar. It was blood-stained and evidently used by the woman in beating the children.

The word mausoleum is derived from the tomb erected at Halicarnassus to Mausolus, king of Caria, by his widow, Artemesia. It was built about 350 B. C.

Mainly About People

ONE MINUTE PULPIT
The integrity of the upright shall guide them; but the perverseness of transgressors shall destroy them.—Proverbs 11:3.

A letter received by The Herald office Wednesday from James Dreshbach, Detroit attorney, former Judge Charles Dreshbach, is still in the land of the living. The younger Mr. Dreshbach wrote that his father, who went to visit him Dec. 12, has improved steadily since arriving in Detroit.

One hundred and fifty members of the lodge were served supper Tuesday evening when the Fraternal Order of Eagles enjoyed a big evening. Visiting members of the lodge were Dave Berry of Cleveland, grand auditor, and C. O. Conrad of Hillsboro, state organizer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Green and family moved Wednesday from 720 S. Court-st. to 127 1/2 W. Main-st.

Berger hospital employees have been kept busy the past week. Sixteen patients have been in the hospital each day for over a week and Tuesday there were eighteen, two being discharged during the day. Twenty-five are the most that can be cared for at one time.

Clarence Heeter was removed from his home on the Stoutsville road Tuesday afternoon to University hospital, Columbus. He is suffering from pneumonia. The trip was made in the Rhinehart invalid car.

Mrs. Alice Hosler, N. Scioto-st., is slowly improving today following a heart attack Monday morning.

Joseph Rooney Jr., E. Union-st., underwent a goiter operation Wednesday morning in Berger hospital. Dr. William Smith of Columbus performed the operation.

CRIMINAL FLEES FEDERAL 'TRAP'

Karpis, Companion Escape from Missouri Garage

AURORA, Mo., Jan. 15.—(UP)—Alvin Karpis, America's Public Enemy No. 1, and a companion escaped a trap set by federal officers and highway patrolmen at a garage here today.

The trap had been maintained by federal agents and highway patrolmen since Dec. 30 when Karpis and his companion rented space in a garage to store their automobile.

The identification of Karpis at that time was made positive by Harry and Oliver Seburn who operate the garage and several attendants who were there when the two men drove the machine in.

The trap failed when officers temporarily relaxed their vigilance at the breakfast hour. Federal agents and highway patrolmen took up the trail and were reported to be less than five minutes behind the desperado.

YOUNG DIVORCE GRANTED
Helen Young, Deercreek-twp., was granted a divorce in common pleas court Tuesday from J. R. Young on the grounds of neglect and cruelty. Mrs. Young was restored to her maiden name of Helen Brannon.

The custody of a minor child, J. R. Young, Jr., was awarded by the court to his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Young.

The divorce action of Wilma Wilson, Columbus, against Robert W. Wilson, has been assigned for hearing Jan. 18 at 1 p. m. by Judge J. W. Adkins.

and an application for a stay of execution. The court said the requested action would be a reversal of the Supreme court by a lower court. He said he believed Hauptmann had a fair trial.

Governor Hoffman thus became Hauptmann's one hope. His only other possible avenues of escape are an appeal to the New Jersey Supreme court in Flemington for a new trial and an appeal to a judge of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals for a "writ of probable cause."

Lawyers thought court appeals would be useless—that they could not win even a delay.

Governor Hoffman maintained a silence that has endured since he retracted an announced intention to order Dr. John F. (Jassie) Condon "apprehended" in Central America for questioning. But he revealed that he still is vigorously investigating "Jassie's" part in the mystery. He handed to reporters photostatic copies of two letters the Bronx school teacher wrote to unidentified persons. Both indicated Condon believed his correspondent knew something of the Lindbergh kidnaping. Hoffman did not reveal where he obtained the letters.

May Delay Case
The evidence of his continued interest in "Jassie," who sailed suddenly last Friday for Central and South America, and Wilentz' statement, caused new confidence in some quarters that he will order Hauptmann's execution delayed until Condon can be questioned again.

"The governor expects that Dr. Condon will return voluntarily," cryptically said William C. Conklin, Hoffman's secretary.

TURNER PLANS ATTEMPT TO SET NEW AIR MARK

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—(UP)—Col. Roscoe Turner, whose transcontinental flight record was broken by Howard Hughes, movie producer, said today he would attempt to better the new record soon.

Hughes' record of 9 hours, 27 minutes and 19 seconds bettered Turner's mark by more than half an hour.

$2,304 IN SALES TAX RECEIVED BY AUDITOR

Distribution of $2,304.07 in sales tax for December was announced Tuesday morning by Forrest Short, county auditor.

The county receives $1,320.30; townships $435.65 and corporations $548.12.

COMMODITIES RECEIVED

Forty cases of canned meat, the first shipment of surplus commodities sent to the newly organized central relief agency, arrived Wednesday morning. The first distribution will be made Friday.

Oddities in Nation's News

SLEEP-PROOF CLOCK

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(UP)—Because Columbia university students objected to weak coffee in the cafeteria, Edward O. Ross has invented a sleep-proof alarm clock. The coffee used to be weak because Ross is the cafeteria coffee maker, and he never could get to work early enough to run it through more than once. So he put a spool on the alarm key of his clock, a string to wind on the revolving spool and an electric switch at the end of the string. The switch ignites a spotlight trained on his pillow, and turns on his radio full volume. And if that fails, a second alarm clock goes off five minutes later. The coffee has been perfect for days now.

ELIGIBLES LISTED

GARNETT, Kans., Jan. 15.—(UP)—If the unmarried girls of Franklin and Anderson counties don't marry this year it won't be the fault of the newspapers. The names of several hundred eligible bachelors were recently listed by papers in Ottawa and Garnett.

UPPER SANDUSKY, Jan. 15.—(UP)—Two years ago, William Buss, 65, miraculously escaped death when a train plowed into his automobile at a grade crossing. Yesterday, a train struck his car at the same crossing. Buss was killed instantly.

WHAT AN 'ACCIDENT'!

THORNVILLE, Jan. 15.—(UP)—Ferry Hartman explained how he received a minor bullet wound in his leg in a manner that made his friends put tongues in their cheeks. Hartman said he fired at a rat. The bullet passed through the rat, struck a rock and rebounded wounding him in the leg.

"CHAMPION" IS DEAD

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Jan. 15.—(UP)—Mrs. Augusta Knipfer, 93, known as "Iowa's champion grandmother," is dead. Survivors include eight children, 53 grandchildren, 112 great-grand children and two great-great-grandchildren.

THERE was a time when the price tag told the main story about a car's quality. Low price, low quality—high price, high quality.

But Buick has changed that. For example, the sleek Buick Special at $765* factory list has the same basic Buick quality as the lordly Limited at more than twice the price!

It has the same more efficient type of valve-in-head straight-eight engine. The same smooth, lash-free torque-tube drive. The same tiptoe hydraulics, solid steel "Turret Top" roof, "Knee-Action" gliding ride.

The difference is in size and capacity and finish. All Buicks are big in power and ability, beautiful inside and out, Buicks to the innermost fibre.

Bring your pocketbook here and let it choose from four cars that range in price from $765 factory list to $1945*.

YOU CAN AFFORD THE NEW BUICK
to $1945 are the list prices at Flint, Mich., subject to change without notice. Standard and special accessories groups on all models at extra cost. All Buick prices include safety glass throughout standard equipment. Convenient new GMAC 6% TIME PAYMENT PLAN
